

WALL STREET STEEL STOCK UP SHARPLY; OTHERS ALSO ARE STRONG

Sustained Recovery in Prices Lifts the General Average to Another New High Level for Year.

MONEY QUIET, CALL
RATE UNCHANGED

Series of Excellent Earning Reports Led by U. S.
Steel and Favorable Dividend Announcements Help.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—A sustained recovery in prices in today's stock market lifted the general average to another new high level for the year. Final quotations, which in most cases were close to the day's highs, disclosed
a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 12 1/2 points. Trading showed a moderate expansion in volume, the day's sales again running above 3,000,000 shares.

A series of excellent earnings reports led by U. S. Steel, several favorable dividend announcements and reports of a further upturn in production provided the background for the buying movement,
which embraced practically all groups of stocks. International Telephone was one of the few important issues to lose ground, closing nearly 2 points lower.

The Steel Corporation's showing,
best for the quarter and the year
as a whole, proved to have been hardly better than even the most optimistic had anticipated. Fourth quarter earnings equivalent to $4.14
a share on the common stock, compared with unofficial estimates ranging from $3 to around $3.5 a share, while net for the year of $14.6 a share, without including credit adjustments made in the final quarter which would bring total earnings to $21.13 a share, compared with estimates running from $18 to around $19 a share.

Steel shares were quick to respond to the unusually favorable quarterly reports by U. S. Steel, Inland and Jones & Laughlin.
Toughness Sheet & Tube soared
10 points on a small turnover. U. S.
Steel common closed with a net gain of 4 1/2 points at 121 1/2, after having set a new high for the year at 115 1/2, or within a point of the highest price reached since the November break.

A. I. Case ran up 1 1/2 points, Johnson Auto 10 and Vulcan Devotion National Surety, Ladies Gait, Columbia Carbon, Warren
Steel, Detroit Edison and Diamond Match closed 5 to 7 1/2 points higher.

Spanish Exchange Up.
A risk recovery of nearly half cent in Spanish securities to around 2 1/2 cents, based on the peaceful change of ministry, featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Leading European rates remained steady, sterling closed at 115 1/2, while the dollar was at 14.85-16.

Although current traffic and earnings reports continue unsatis-fying as compared with a year ago, the railroad shares displayed a firm undertone. Jersey Central closed 10 points on a couple of shares. Reading was marked up 3 1/2
and Lackawanna, New York Central and Union Pacific advanced 2 to 3 points.

Cash money was quiet today and little business was done, although some in the "outside market" were available at 3 1/2 per cent.

The renewal rate was 4 1/2 per cent,
reduced from yesterday, and the discount rate later dropped to 4.

In addition to selling the extra dividend of $1 a share on both the common and common "B" stocks
at today's meeting, the extra being the same as ordered this time a year ago, directors of Liggett &
others voted an offering of additional stock to shareholders of both classes. Under the offering stockholders may purchase one additional share at $15 a share for five shares held, the "rights" representing value of $15 on the basis of currently prevailing prices for the stocks.

PLANES HURRY AID TO DIVER TWO DAYS IN RIVER BOTTOM

Peter Trans Caught in Cribbing of Power Plant at Riviere des Outardes, Canada
— Crews Pumping Air

By the Associated Press.
QUINCE, Jan. 24.—Advices received here late today said two rescue divers had arrived by airplane at Riviere des Outardes to attempt to extricate Peter Trans,
a deep-sea diver, who has been pinned for two days to the bottom of the Riviere des Outardes, near the little stream empties into the St. Lawrence.

The current was so strong at the point where Trans is held prisoner, however, that rescue-work for the present, is said to be impossible.

The plane, bearing the rescue divers and their equipment, took off from Rimouski, along the southern shore of the St. Lawrence, where snowstorms had forced them down yesterday.

Whether or not Trans still lives in the icy water has not been learned from Riviere des Outardes, owing to poor communication facilities.

Crews of men have been pumping fresh air to him steadily since Monday afternoon when he was caught in the cribbing at the bottom of a falls where the Ontario
Paper Co. is constructing a power plant.

Fearing to attempt to pull the diver loose from the obstacle just the previous fresh-air line besides, Trans' companions could only anxiously await the arrival of the rescue divers, Quinlan Moroney and Lewis B. Tabbets.

Using a spare diving suit, a volunteer went down into the icy water twice yesterday, but reported that he was unable to free Trans.

Inexperienced in the art of working under water, the volunteers said that he feared to pull at the trapped diver because he might make matters worse. He said that Trans would have to be sawed free from the cribbing, his body was jammed in so tightly.

Paper company officials plan to pump the crib dry if the rescue divers fail in their efforts to free Trans. A Dane, Trans is a veteran diver and possesses great stamina,
but it is feared he has not been able to withstand the long submer-sion in the cold water.

SUES TO UPHOLD OWN IDEAS ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE

Agent Seeks $200,000
From 31 Companies, Charging They Tried to Stop Spread of His Views

ALSO ALLEGES THEY HURT HIS BUSINESS

Lewis B. Tabbets Sold Term and Annuity Rather Than Endowment Policies and Met Much Opposition

Lewis B. Tabbets, 935 Laurel street, insurance agent and conscientious objector to some of the methods of life insurance companies, today filed suit against 31
such companies doing business in St. Louis and 33 of their local representatives, asking for $200,000 damages.

Tabbets charges the companies
and agents have conspired to prevent him from spreading his ideas
regarding insurance, that they have caused business obtained by him
to be rejected by the companies to which he offered it, and that they
caused Lawton, Byrnes & Bruner
Insurance Agency Co. to sever
business relations with him.

In pursuing the business of insurance agent, Tabbets says, he did not endeavor to sell endowment policies, because he thinks the endowment form of insurance not to be the most advantageous for the insured person. He did sell term policies, so called, covering long periods, thirty, forty, and fifty years, and endeavoring to persuade customers that these afforded the most desirable form of insurance.

Tabbets charges the companies
and agents have conspired to pre-
vent him from spreading his ideas
regarding insurance, that they have
caused business obtained by him
to be rejected by the companies to
caused Lawton, Byrnes & Bruner
Insurance Agency Co. to sever

BALSON RELEASED ON $15,000 BOND IN ARSON INQUIRY

Part Owner of Buckingham Annex, Against Whom No Warrant Has Been Issued, Set Free.

THREE OTHERS
ARE STILL HELD

Leona Thurman, Former Maid, a Witness, Freed
on Agreement to Appear
When Wanted.

Lewis B. Balson, majority owner of the Buckingham Hotel and Buckingham Annex when the east wing of the Annex was burned with a loss of seven lives, Dec. 5, 1927,
was released today on $15,000 bond.
He had been detained since Sunday
in a renewed investigation of the fire.

Following a conference with Bal-son's lawyer, Circuit Attorney Miller, announced he would agree to a $15,000 common-law bond on a tentative charge "suspected of arson"
pending further inquiry. No warrant has been issued against Bal-son.

Six men of 15 or more who appeared to declare their belief in Balson's innocence and their willingness to furnish bail for him,
were accepted as sureties by Circuit Judge Hamilton shortly before noon.

The six men who signed the bond
were: Charles Banks, superintendent of the University City public works department; C. C. O'Hara, owner of E. C. O'Hara, power manufacturer; Dennis R. Seymour, nu-sician; A. J. March, contractor, and Thomas H. Snyder, contractor.

The group moved immediately to police headquarters, where they surrounded Balson as he was released and congratulated him. He smiled cheerfully through a three day's growth of beard as his personal property was returned to him.

To reporters who asked for a statement, he said: "I think I had better follow my attorney's advice."

He slipped on his suit which had been taken from him in accordance with a police rule designed to prevent suicide attempts.
Balson remarked to the desk servant: "I'm glad to get that back. I've been holding my pants up with my hands ever since I came in here."

Leona Thurman, former maid
at the Annex, who had been detained as a material witness, was released yesterday with the understanding that she would report
when wanted.

Held on warrants charging murder and arson are Andrew B.
Meadows, former night watchman
at the Annex, who has admitted he was hired to set fire to the building; Robert H. Cotham, Circuit court clerk at the main Buckingham, who admitted he hired Meadows and Ralph Pierson, former minority owner of the hotel, who denies Cotham's accusation that he suggested burning the hotel as a means of collecting fire insurance and rescuing the property from re-seizure.

No warrant for Balson.
Circuit Attorney Miller, in announcing no warrant would be issued against Balson at this time,
said he would continue his investigation into the financial state of the hotel at the time of the fire
and would determine whether to present the matter relating to Bal-son to the grand jury. The matter is not given to the grand jury, announcement will be made as to Balson's discharge, Miller said.

"We had all our cards on the table for the Circuit Attorney," Balson's lawyer, Jacob M. Lashly, former president of the St. Louis Bar Association, told reporters
after his conference with Miller.

"I had been representing Balson
in Bankruptcy Court since September, preceding the fire. I knew as his counsel that he was definitely out of the hotel, had turned over everything to the fire department and had been out of the hotel for some time. I had decided to take his law and forget it. It is inconceivable to me as his counsel that he could have been interested in the alleged arson scheme."

A spokesman for Balson's friends who accompanied Attorney Lashly said: "We have not only lost confidence in him. Not only is he generous to employees, is generous, but is everything. He was a devoted character. He was not wary to church but he actually lived a Christian life."

Charles M. Hay, fire insurer and former Democratic candidate for governor, said he had been interested in the alleged arson scheme.

Freed on Bail in Arson Inquiry

Lewis B. Balson leaving jail, where he had been detained for questioning in the investigation which led to the issuance of warrants charging murder and arson against Ralph Pierson, R. H. Cotham and
A. B. Meadows.

AGREEMENT TO MODIFY WAR AT SEA SUGGESTED

Drafting of Humanitarian Code With Particular Reference to Submarine
Mentioned.

STIMSON CONFERS
WITH MACDONALD

Preparations Being Made for Open Plenary Session of Delegates at London Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 24.—Drafting of a humanitarian code for the conduct of sea warfare, with particular reference to submarines, is under consideration today as one of the possible tasks of the naval conference.

As conversations between the national delegations proceeded in preparation for tomorrow's plenary session it was disclosed there was a strong disposition in some quarters to include discussion of humanitarian warfare in the conference agenda.

Reference made by Henry I.
Stimson, United States Secretary of State and delegation head, in his radio address last night to this effect attracted wide attention. It was said that, if attention to the subject were impossible, the United States hoped to submit a draft of a code covering other types of warfare.

There was no expectation in formulated circles that the abolition of submarine warfare would be possible or that any code of sea conduct would be so broad as to deal comprehensively with the old question of freedom of the seas, which had been adopted.

Nevertheless, some delegates saw a likelihood of important new precepts on the use of naval vessels
being written into international law
at the conference. The Americans were unwilling to enlarge on what the Secretary of State said in his radio address.

British Cruiser Strength.
First Lord of the Admiralty
Alexander told the House of Commons this afternoon that Britain's cruiser strength in the naval estimates for the next 10 years would depend on the results of the naval conference.

Asked what increase or decrease
for the next two five-year periods of the naval estimates would result from fixing the number of cruisers at 60, he replied: "There are at present 14 British Empire cruisers built, and four others in an advanced stage of construction."
The effect on the British estimates of fixing the total at 20 cruisers depends on the size of the cruisers laid down and the type of the cruisers built to replace those that become obsolete.

The decision on these questions depends on the conclusions of the naval conference.

According to figures that Alexander gave to another questioner
the saving in the British naval estimates for the next six years would aggregate more than $12,000,000.
It represents a reduction of 10 per cent
in the total of the Washington treaty was deferred until 1935.

Stimson Lunch With Premier.
Col. and Mrs. Stimson had lunch with Prime Minister Macdonald and Miss Isabel Macdonald at No. 14 Downing street.
Stimson, talked with Macdonald for nearly an hour at the latter's office in the House of Commons
late today.

Later the British Prime Minister received former President Washington at Japan, who was followed by Foreign Minister Giannini of Italy.

The purpose of these conferences was to inform the Americans, Japanese and Italian chairs as to what had taken place in the British and French conferences.

The British Prime Minister will open tomorrow's plenary session at St. James's Palace and then the other delegations will be given an opportunity of speaking in alphabetical order.

Members of the American delegation, with their wives, will go to Macdonald's country place, Chiswick, Saturday, and from there will make a tour of the historic spots of Buckinghamshire
and surrounding country.

After many private conferences and consultations today, the delegations will meet tomorrow.

STUDENTS CLASH WITH POLICE WHEN DE RIVERA QUILTS

200 Celebrators Arrested and Several Injured in Madrid—Shouts of 'Long Live Republic' Suppressed

GEN. BERENGUER NEW PREMIER OF SPAIN

Promises to Restore Suspended Constitution and to Choose Civilian Cabinet.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, Jan. 23.—Police today fought crowds of students boisterously celebrating in the streets of the capital the resignation of Gen. Primo de Rivera, for six years Premier and Dictator of Spain.

Almost 300 were arrested and many were injured, several seriously. Clashes occurred in many parts of the city, one demonstration near the Royal Palace was dispersed when police fired over the students' heads.

Drums and whistles were used to force back the demonstrators in some downtown streets. There were many fist fights between the officers and students, who shouted: "Long live the King! Death to Primo!" Police quickly suppressed shouts of "Long live the Republic."

Meanwhile Gen. Primo de Rivera, whose resignation was accepted by King Alfonso, effective at 10:15 o'clock last night, conferred with his successor and perennial enemy—Gen. Damaso Berenguer, chief of King Alfonso's military household and former Commander in Morocco.

De Rivera's farewell address to King Alfonso, bidding farewell to the country as head of the Government, issued an official note which concluded:

"And now to rest a little, to recover my health. Two thousand three hundred and twenty-six days have been filled with inquietude, responsibility and labor! But rested, then if God wishes, I shall return to serve Spain until I die!"

He then expressed the belief that it would be necessary for the Government to have some form of dictatorship to govern the country during the next few years. He pledged his personal loyalty to King Alfonso and declared he would become the incoming government.

Of his successor he said: "The King entrusted formation of the new government to Gen. Damaso Berenguer. I was highly pleased with this designation for he is a man of great serenity of judgment, possessed of much discretion and deeply beloved throughout the country. There is no better man for the place."

New Leader's Statement. Gen. Berenguer's statement to the nation upon his accession contained the words:

"I shall form a Cabinet composed mostly of civilians. For Minister of Finance, I shall choose a person with the qualifications of prudence and technical knowledge without entangling interests. All my Ministers, except those at the head of the War and Navy offices, will be civilians."

"From this moment until my government may end I swear allegiance to the constitution of 1876. There will soon be reorganization of the political parties, with legislation providing for general elections for Senators and Deputies in accordance with the laws which still stand for re-establishment of parliament."

Later the premier-designate announced that the Duke of Alba, one of the foremost nobles of Spain, had accepted the portfolio of public education. The selection is likely to be popular. In 1935 the Duke divided his estates among 400 tenants in order to set a democratic example.

Francisco Camba, a leading industrialist, and Juan Ventosa, a close associate of his, were mentioned as possible selections for the Finance Ministry. Leopoldo Mateo, former Conservative Minister who is legal adviser to the royal household was mentioned as possible Minister of Interior.

Streets Crowded. Streets and cafes were crowded throughout the night with people excitedly discussing the situation. Madrid newspapers, freed of censorship after more than six years, found so much to say regarding the Cabinet crisis that their regular editions were not sufficient. Extra editions at midnight handled the overflow of copy.

Nowhere outside of Madrid, did it seem the demonstrations had the serious aspect of the police clashes with students here. Everywhere another. The five department was called and great excitement prevailed while police and firemen combined forces to disperse the crowd.

U. S. Ambassadors and Senators Divide Labors Among Powers

Morrow Dealing Particularly With French—Stimson, First on List, Expected to Speak Briefly at Parley Tomorrow.

By CHARLES G. BOSS, Staff Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, Jan. 23.—The American naval conference delegation held a protracted meeting today preparatory to the third primary session of the conference tomorrow. Under the alphabetical arrangement, Secretary of State Stimson will have the first chance to speak after the opening of the session by Prime Minister MacDonald.

Stimson's radio speech yesterday indicated a growing irritation at the delay in the conference. He said that the American delegation is playing a waiting game. A rough division of labors within the delegation has been effected, and a final decision between the global and the Atlantic powers is expected. The American delegation is playing a waiting game. Reasons for Change. The events which led to resignation of Gen. Primo de Rivera and the naming of a new Premier still not clear today although a general idea could be gained of what had happened.

The Dictator's Resignation. The Dictator's resignation was announced in a radio speech yesterday. He said that he was resigning because he was no longer able to govern the country.

He conferred later with King Alfonso and was understood to have met criticism, tacitly perhaps, from both the crown and his colleagues in the Cabinet. It being pointed out that he had in a sense gone over the King's head.

In Spain as in no other constitutional monarchy of Europe is the right of the King to name or dismiss Cabinet ministers recognized as supreme.

In answering the dictator's request for an expression of confidence, the conference seemed to have been filled with inquietude, responsibility and labor! But rested, then if God wishes, I shall return to serve Spain until I die!"

HOUSE COMMITTEE SETS HEARINGS ON DRY LAW REPEAL

Judiciary Group to Take Up Seven Measures Beginning Feb. 12—An Unprecedented Action.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Chairman Graham of the House Judiciary Committee announced today hearings would begin before his group Feb. 12 on seven measures for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

This will be the first time since the enactment of the eighteenth amendment that such a course has been taken by the Judiciary Committee. Previous efforts made by the House to repeal the amendment have failed.

Chairman Graham declared ample opportunity would be given to all persons and organizations desiring to be heard by the committee. Graham said the full committee would conduct the hearings. After these hearings are completed, he said, subcommittee No. 1 would conduct hearings on all proposed measures to repeal the prohibition law.

The Pennsylvania declared he decided to hold the hearings because "I believe the proponents of these measures are entitled to a hearing on the eighteenth amendment and the prohibition law." He added that Representative Sabath (Dem.), Illinois, and a great number of citizens had implored him to conduct hearings and that he would give them the opportunity to be heard.

Wet Blue Did Not Act. Graham specified that the action was not brought about by the House wet bloc, saying he had received no position from that group. He said he was not interested in 2.75 per cent beer as an issue and the fact would be only on the major question of prohibition or no prohibition.

Senator Borah of Idaho, one of the dry leaders, condemned the movement by some House wets for 2.75 per cent beer as falling to meet the issue.

"That wouldn't help the situation at all," he said. "Such legislation wouldn't settle any of the questions we now have before us. It would merely add a little aroma to your drinks."

Representative Dyer of Missouri, a Republican who is one of the wets, introduced a bill for beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content. He already has asked the Hoover law enforcement commission members to appear before the House Judiciary Committee and testify on his measure.

Borah Wrong, Mitchell Says. Attorney General Mitchell yesterday denied a statement by Senator Borah of Idaho, an outstanding dry critic of enforcement conditions, that the Justice Department had investigated the record of Prohibition Administrator Herbert of the Montana-Idaho district. He also denied that any Justice agent had been spying on Borah's office.

The Idaho Republican replied that some employee of the Government had investigated Herbert and had submitted the report on the dry administrator to Prohibition Commissioner Dyer. He returned of his informant had been removed from the city after calling upon the Senator at his office.

"We ought to find out all the facts," Borah declared. "We will go into the whole question when the prohibition bill comes up."

Senator Robinson asked if the German I. G. Corporation had organized the American corporation "to squeeze out independent dry companies in this country." "No," answered Mitchell. He added that the American company was formed to "take over what the Germans had in this country and to keep it here."

Emmy Destinn, Grand Opera Star, Dies in Czecho-Slovakia

Prima Donna Created Title Role in "Madame Butterfly" and Sang With Metropolitan—Married Young Aviator in 1923.

MME. EMMY DESTINN.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—The prima donna, Emmy Destinn, died today at Budweis, Czecho-Slovakia. She was 51 years old.

Mme. Destinn became one of the most famous singers of European opera of the first quarter of the century. She was born in Prague, Bohemia, Feb. 28, 1874, the daughter of Emanuel Kitzler, an actor.

Her education as a violinist under Lachner. From 1892 to 1895 she studied under Maria Loewe-Destinn, whose name she adopted. In 1895 she joined the Royal Opera Company in Berlin.

She appeared first as Senta in the "Flying Dutchman" and as Nedda in "Pagliacci" at Covent Garden in 1895, later creating the title role in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and Tchaikovsky's "Eugene Onegin." Her other favorite roles were Aida, Salome, Nedda, Armide, Venus, Elza and Maddalena in "Andrea Chénier."

Her hobby was writing and versifying, collecting rare books and beautiful bindings. In 1910 she participated in the then new production of Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

She took out her first citizenship papers in the United States shortly before America's entrance into the World War. In 1923 she married a Captain Hainrich, Czecho-Slovak aviator, who was much younger than herself.

Her voice was a soprano of extraordinary range. Predicts Colored Lights for Decoration of Home

By the Associated Press.

Engineer Describes Possibilities of Their Use Before Electrical Board of Trade.

In the near future drawing rooms in private homes will be illuminated by colored lights similar to those now employed in stage lighting, to create different decorative effects, according to C. E. Stewart, designing engineer of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., who addressed the Electrical Board of Trade at a meeting yesterday at Hotel Statler.

By employing the proper combination of colored lights the entire decorating of a room may be changed several times, he said. He described a recent demonstration in a New York ballroom where this effect has been attained without changing other objects, such as pictures, drapes and bric-a-brac in the room.

about his change, I know they were surprised, but I was not. I was just as much surprised as they were.

Meadows, who lived at the Buckingham Hotel, contributed most of his earnings to his wife's support, she said, but came home only twice a week. The daughter, a salesgirl, pays the rent on the single fourth-floor hotel room, where she and her mother live.

Chief of Detectives Kaiser, when asked what Cotham meant by his statement that Pierson told him "the job had to be done by Dec. 20," said: "That's what we're trying to find out."

Statutes Under Which Murder and Arson Warrants Were Issued.

In issuing warrants charging first degree murder against Pierson, Meadows and Cotham, the Circuit Attorney acted under Section 3220 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1919, which specifically defines a homicide committed during the perpetration of arson as murder in the first degree.

The section is the first of Article 4, "Offenses Against the Lives and Persons of Individuals," in Chapter 24, "Crimes and Punishments." It reads:

"Every murder which shall be committed by means of poison, or by lying in wait, or by any other kind of willful, deliberate and premeditated killing, and every homicide which shall be committed in the perpetration of or attempt to perpetrate any arson, rape, robbery, burglary, or mayhem, shall be deemed murder in the first degree."

Under the first degree murder statute, the three men can be held in jail without bail until the grand jury acts in the case. Under Missouri procedure it is customary for the grand jury to return indictments charging the highest degree of murder, first degree.

However, failure by the State to prove first degree murder in court would not invalidate such an indictment. At the conclusion of testimony in a murder case in Missouri, the Court instructs the jury as to the evidence and the degree of guilt, and a jury can find a defendant guilty of manslaughter, the lowest degree of murder.

Penalties for the various degrees of murder range from a minimum of a $500 fine or jail term for manslaughter to hanging or life imprisonment for first degree murder.

Arson in the first degree, with which Pierson, Meadows and Cotham are also charged, is the Circuit Attorney's warrants, is punishable by imprisonment from five to 20 years. Lesser degrees of arson are punishable by from two to 10 years.

INSANITY DEFENSE OF EX-JUDGE ON TRIAL FOR KILLING

Witnesses Assert Drink Weakened Mind of Man Accused of Stabbing Woman at Austin, Tex.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 28.—With the defendant pictured by defense witnesses as an intellectual man who through excessive drinking had become enfeebled, physically and mentally, the murder trial of former Judge John W. Brady was resumed today with continued efforts to build a basis for a plea of insanity.

Brady, 59 years old, is charged with the killing of Miss Leah Highsmith, 23, court stenographer, at Houston, Jan. 23, 1931. He was first placed on the stand today. Five or six years ago, he said, Brady was a "bright and intelligent lawyer." Then he began drinking heavily and on the night of Nov. 3 Brady was in such a condition Townes "considered him subnormal."

Townes saw Brady in the lobby of an Austin hotel the night of the stabbing. It was after a football game, and the lobby was crowded with students and alumni.

"He had an uncertain look in his eye, he spoke in an exaggerated manner. He was trying to be unusually courteous," said Townes.

Four defense witnesses were called to the stand yesterday after the State rested with the conclusion of testimony from six witnesses, two of whom said they saw the fatal stabbing of Miss Highsmith.

One of the defense witnesses was Brady's wife, who described him as a man once remarkably brilliant, but who through excessive drinking had become enfeebled and had abandoned a lucrative law practice.

Brady wept when his wife cried as she described their married life and efforts preceding the slaying of Miss Highsmith on the night of Nov. 3.

Mrs. Brady testified she knew her husband and Miss Highsmith were having an affair. One night, she said, she went to Miss Highsmith's room and found Brady there. Both of them, the witness related, said they wanted to "break off" the affair.

"I put my arms around her and told her I wouldn't push her in the gutter," Mrs. Brady said.

The witness testified that the woman and Brady were not together again for some time except at the St. Louis hotel where Miss Highsmith was staying.

The stenographer was stabbed to death a few hours later in front of her rooming house and Brady was found standing over the body.

FAVORS 2 TO 6 A. M. PARKING LIMIT EVERYWHERE IN CITY

Traffic Engineer Appears at Hearing on Proposed Uniform Code.

City Traffic Engineer Hoffman, at a hearing before the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday on the proposed uniform traffic code, advocated in particular the clause to limit parking everywhere in the city to 30 minutes between 2 to 6 a. m.

This would facilitate downtown street cleaning and aid the police in finding stolen cars and checking immorality, Hoffman asserted.

Alderman Schwartz and Lange expressed opposition to the clause. Some of the aldermen likewise spoke unfavorably of the clause to require automobiles to come to a halt behind street cars loading or unloading passengers.

The present law permits machines to pass where there is a foot clearance between them and trolley cars and the Aldermen were of the opinion this worked well. They debated also the desirability of the clause permitting traffic to go on either side of a safety zone.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach secretions have been over-stimulated, and food moves too fast.

The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known is medicinal sodium bicarbonate, known as Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 30 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never see acute indigestion again when you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting indigestion. The 50¢ and $1.00 bottles are the only ones.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. since 1875.

BROOKLYN GANG LEADER SLAIN IN AMBUSH ON PIER

Charles (Red) Donnelly Shot Down From Checker's Shanty After Being Lured to Dock.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The name of Charles (Red) Donnelly, 50 years old, was added today to the long list of gang leaders slain in the fight for control of the waterfront in the Red Hook district of Brooklyn. He was ambushed and shot twice in the head by gunmen hidden behind a checker's shanty on the pier of the Colombian Line.

Two weeks ago Detective William Broome, who has been keeping close watch of the waterfront gangs, met Donnelly. "I've been hearing things, Red," the detective told the stevedore leader, "you had better lay off. It's in the cards that they'll get you sometime." Broome said Donnelly answered with a laugh.

Donnelly was watching the stevedores from whom he extorted tribute yesterday when a messenger approached him, and said: "You're wanted down on the pier."

Two Shots Fired.

Donnelly strode toward the pierhead. As he passed the checker's booth two shots were fired. Leaders working nearby found him dead. The murderers had disappeared for lack of evidence.

Likes that of many of his predecessors, Donnelly's reign was short. Eighteen months ago he was arraigned on a charge of killing his immediate predecessor, Eddie Martin. It was the fifth time he had faced a murder charge, and as in the previous cases, it was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Magistrate Healy, in dismissing the charge, said to Donnelly: "Go but and keep the good work up. Shoot each other all you want and the sooner we get rid of gang leaders in Brooklyn the better it will be for the police and the people."

Collected From Stevedores.

Donnelly was a lieutenant of "Wild" Bill Lovett when the Lovett gang terrorized Brooklyn eight years ago. Their habit was to extort money from stevedores employed along the docks and control of the gambling in the district.

After Lovett's murder in a gang hangout, Donnelly shared leadership with Eddie McGuire until another shooting removed McGuire. Then he and Eddie Martin eclipsed Donnelly's rule until Martin was killed.

Four men were arrested last night charged with complicity in the killing of Donnelly. All denied any knowledge of the crime.

COUSIN OF N. CHOUTEAU DIES

Abbe of French Monastery Had Never Visited St. Louis.

G. K. Soora, the managing director of the company and one of those fined, said he did not employ boys under the legal age in the factory.

TWO MORE HELD IN DOUBLE KILLING IN DETROIT SPEAKASY

One Man Arrested in Room, Ca. Another in Michigan City; Third Caught in Elgin, Ill.

ROME, Ga., Jan. 28.—Harold Price, alias Buck Price, was arrested yesterday by Inspector Fred W. Frank at the Detroit Speakeasy, to face a charge of murder said to have been committed in a Detroit speakeasy in 1927. Price, a member of a prominent Ford County family, waived extradition.

Price came to Rome in December with Harry Gregg, who was arrested on the same charge in Elgin, Ill. A pistol bearing five notches, paraded there by Gregg, has been found by police.

Byron Sammerville, also said to be a member of the gang that killed George Blumhagen and Louis Davis in the speakeasy, was arrested yesterday in Detroit. Price is said to have driven the automobile used by the robbers and to have taken the body of Joseph Yeoman, a fourth robber, who was mortally wounded during the slaying in the speakeasy, to a lagoon into which it was thrown.

St. Louis, Mo. Father, to seek Modification of Divorce Decree Next Monday.

Custody of 7-year-old Patricia Glass was granted to her mother, Mrs. J. H. Woodward Jr. of 6442 Stevens avenue by Circuit Judge Lashly at Clayton today in a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus filed yesterday. Mrs. Woodward and her former husband, Spaulding F. Glass, a public accountant of Washington, were divorced here June 25, 1925, and it was provided that whenever Glass was in St. Louis he should have custody of the child between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Glass has been here for the last two weeks and he had been taking Patricia daily to the Academy for the Deaf, where she is a student.

WOMEN IN $300,000
SUIT LOVE SAME MAN

So Testify in Alienation Trial
Involving Millionaire Film Distributor.

By The Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 29.—Samuel G. Hutchinson, millionaire Chicago film distributor, is expected to testify today in the suit of his wife, Mrs. Mattie Deane Hutchinson against Mrs. C. P. Taylor for $100,000 on a charge of alienation of affections. At yesterday's session he heard both women reaffirm their love for him. Mrs. Taylor, who testified she met Hutchinson in 1908 and did not know he was married until long after the birth of their first child, Jane, now 18 years old, answered "I do, oh, I do," when asked in cross-examination if she still loved him. A short time later Mrs. Hutchinson, in tears, said: "I still love my husband."
Mrs. Hutchinson told in detail of her life with Hutchinson from the date of her marriage, when he was working in a bank for $46 a month, to the time 12 years later when wealth came after he entered the film distributing business with A. C. Roebuck of Sears, Roebuck & Co. She told of the discovery of her husband's double life when she found in his pockets letters addressed to Cornelius F. Taylor, the name he assumed in his life with Mrs. Taylor. She became suspicious late in 1927, she said, and traced her husband to the home of Mrs. Taylor.

U. S. COURT HOLDS
$1,100,000 GIFTS
BY INDIAN ILLEGAL

Decision of Appellate Tribunal Expected to Cause Return of Fortune Jackson Barnett Gave Wife.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 28.—The Federal Government today was faced with the task of reassembling the scattered fortune of Jackson Barnett, incompetent
Oklahoma Creek Indian, who eight years ago gave with a thumbprint signature more than $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds to a charitable institution and his wife wife.

The order, which is expected to effect return of the fortune to the Government, came yesterday in a decision handed down by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Tenth District, holding that transfer of the money to other persons was illegal, as it was held in trust by the Government as guardian of Barnett.

The ruling came in a suit brought by the Government against Marshall L. Mott, Washington lawyer, for return of $15,000 paid him as attorney's fees for handling phases of the transfer.

Action Against Wife Pending.
Actions pending in California and Kansas courts for the return of fortunes given by Barnett to his wife and Harold McGugin of Columbia, Kan. Mrs. Barnett's attorney, are expected to be settled in accordance with the precedent established by the Appellate Court.
Mrs. Barnett received $550,000
from her husband and paid $150,000
to McGugin. The other half of the Indian's fortune, $550,000,
was given to the Baptist Home Mission Society of New York. The Federal District Court of New York
subsequently ordered the society to return that amount to the Government.

Transfers Approved by Fall.
Barnett, whose fortune came from valuable oil land allotted to him, married Anna Lowe An Cofeyville in 1920. Two years later McGugin, who had been engaged as Mrs. Barnett's attorney, presented to Albert Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, a request bearing the Indian's thumbprint signature that Barnett's bonds be divided and given to the mission society and Mrs. Barnett. After some delay Fall approved the request.

The ruling handed down yesterday reversed a decision of the Eastern Oklahoma Federal District Court, the Appellate Court holding that the Secretary of the Interior was without power to transfer the Liberty bonds to any persons at any time.

Quick Relief for Common Coughs, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up severe coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief in a hurry.

From any drugstore, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Then you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

URGES EDUCATION AS BEST MEANS TO PREVENT CANCERS

Johns Hopkins Professor Says Right Information Would Stop Skin and Mouth Infections.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A hope of finding a cancer remedy was given to the Harlem Medical Society last night by Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins University. "Correct information universally distributed should wipe out cancer of the mouth and skin," he said.

Among some of the more dreaded forms, he went on, the fear and the death rate can be reduced by education.

"From observations of more than 30 years," he said, "on external cancer the evidence is that it does not begin as cancer, but in a local area of abnormal cells. These cells are of two kinds, first those displaced before we are born, giving rise to the well known black mole, a spot like a pen beneath the skin. The second are normal cells irritated by an injury, such as a sore spot on the skin or a white patch in the mouth."

"In the mouth, in fully 97 per cent of the cancer cases of which I have definite records, two distinct factors clearly preceded the area of irritation in which cancer ultimately developed, and they are tobacco in any form including snuff and bad, dirty teeth."

Precautions for Smokers.
"Smokers who are very careful to keep their teeth clean and smooth and who stop smoking the moment they notice the white patch or experience the sensation of a sore mouth never get cancer. I feel confident that my students within 15 or 20 years will not see cancer of the mouth, but will only read about it, as I have read about cancer in chimney sweeps."

Dr. Bloodgood explained that formerly a special type of cancer prevailed among chimney sweeps in England. In almost entire absence of provisions at that time for bathing he said dirt and soot collected upon them, and finally the irritation developed into cancer.

"I am confident," he continued, "that cleanliness will protect and practically prevent cancer of the skin. As men and women grow older and age thickens and wrinkles the skin, it needs more attention, and in addition to soap and water there must be added some toilet water containing alcohol of at least 70 per cent, and some application of an oil substance, because the skin loses its natural secretion."

More Precaution for Aged.
"Individuals exposed to dirt, sunlight and weather must be more careful of the exposed skin as they grow older."

"We are beginning to get some encouraging figures about cancer of the bone. Before discovery of X-rays no cases of cancer of bone were cured, because only the X-rays will detect this in time for a cure. In 1921 the chance of cure after amputation of the limb was less than 5 per cent, in 1929 it was more than 35 per cent."

"We are reducing the mortality of cancer of the bone simply by telling the people through the daily press and other means of communication of the importance of an immediate X-ray examination the moment a child or adult has the least symptom or sign of trouble in the bone.

"We are rapidly learning that the danger of cancer of the stomach is still greater than any other internal cancer, that it is accessible and curable by operation. This is due to the fact that indigestion or any type of discomfort in that region is so common in all adult ages that most victims pay no attention to the lesser types, as cancer in the beginning has the same symptoms as all other conditions which are not cancer, there is usually delay."

For Appomattox Monument.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—A monument commemorating the end of the Civil War, to be constructed at Appomattox where Lee surrendered to Grant, is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Tucker (Dem.), Virginia. The bill would authorize the appropriation of $100,000 for the construction of the monument and $250 annually for its maintenance.

Prevents and Heals CHAPPED SKIN

ITALIAN BALM was invented by an internationally famous Italian skin specialist. As a commercial product, it was first introduced to Canada—where winters are long and severely cold. For many years, Canadians have preferred Italian Balm to any other hand and face lotion made in the Dominion or imported.

In the United States, Italian Balm
Campana's Balm

is rapidly becoming a popular favorite—for two reasons. It is more positive and quicker acting in preventing or healing rough, red or chapped skin. REPEAL OF STATE DRY LAW

DEBATED IN MASSACHUSETTS
BOSTON, Jan. 28.—Prohibition was denounced and upheld today
before the Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs in a hearing on an initiative petition for repeal of the State enforcement act. Charles S. Hackmann, president of the Constitutional Liberty League, and others were the sponsors of the petition.
After Alexander Lincoln, former Assistant Attorney-General, had declared that Massachusetts had established a definite policy against prohibition, Prof. Thomas N. Carver of Harvard, an opponent of the petition, said if the law was repealed the efficiency of industries

would be reduced and the consumption of liquor by all classes would be increased.
Lincoln cited a referendum in this State two years ago in which 34 State senatorial districts out of 38 voting favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment.
Carver replied to a question concerning his attitude toward the making of home brew by workmen

by saying "we object to the transportation in commercial quantities."
Among those who favored the petition were Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, sister of President A.
Lawrence Lowell of Harvard; Mrs.
F. Lothrop Ames, chairman of the Women's Organization for Reform of National Prohibition; and Mrs.
Frederick F. Bagley of the same organization.

SENATE VOTES HIGHER DUTY ON RAYON BRAIDS

Without Roll Call Increases
Tariff From 15 to 45
Per Cent on Millinery Supplies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The Senate today rejected, 19 to 34,
a Democratic proposal to slash materially proposed increases in tariffs on straw hats and the bill rates remained to be acted upon.

Without a roll call, the Senate voted to increase the tariff on millinery braids containing a substantial part of rayon from 15 to 45 per cent.

When the hat section of the bill was reached, Senator Barkley (Dem., Kentucky), started a controversy with a proposal to eliminate proposed increases in duties on straw hats and reduce the existing levy on sewed straw hats worth less than $9.50 a dozen from 35
to 40 per cent.

Barkley said the proposed rate of $4 a dozen and 30 per cent on straw hats would be equal to 165 per cent, and that 17 per cent of the total domestic consumption was imported.

"They offer no consolation to the American farmer," he said, "to say that he can buy a harvest hat and pay only a small duty, but if he wants a dress hat, which he can wear to town or to church, he must pay a tariff of 165 per cent."

Most of the imported hats were of a variety, he added, which sell at about $1 retail, and to add a specific duty of $4 a dozen would be "a complete embargo."

Smoot said American manufacture were importing hats to make up for a loss from sales of their own production.

Arguing for an increase, Copland (Dem., New York), said, unless a specific duty were added the straw hat industry would be destroyed. He exhibited a chip hat which, he said, cost 25 cents to make and 25 cents to ship. He added that with higher protection, American manufacturers could produce the same hat.
By a vote of 41 to 26, the Senate turned down yesterday the first of what had been proposed as a series of amendments to the tariff bill to raise import duties on all vegetable, animal and fish oils and fats to a minimum of 45 per cent ad valorem.

This was the increase favored by the farm organizations to protect American farmers from foreign importations, but the last vote discouraged any further attempt to obtain higher protection than that accorded in the pending bill.
The only increase approved—and that had the endorsement of the Finance Committee—would boost
the duty on linseed or flaxseed oil from 2.5 to 3.5 cents a pound. The Senate previously had raised the levy to 2.5 cents, but at a later date it increased the duty on flaxseed from 2 to 3 cents a bushel.
Yesterday, action was to bring the oil into line with that on the raw product.

VOTE SOON LIKELY ON INDEPENDENCE FOR PHILIPPINESBingham Says Issue Will Be Put Before Senate as Soon as Possible After Feb. 10.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A vote in the Senate on Philippine independence during the present session of Congress appeared likely today with an announcement by Chairman Bingham of the Senate Territories Committee, that the committee would report a bill as soon after Feb. 10 as possible.

It also was disclosed that Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, an administration member of the Territories Committee, is drafting a bill providing for independence at the end of 19 years.

Vandenberg is using the measure, once offered by former Secretary of War Weeks proposing independence at the end of 25 years as the basis of his bill. He is adding to the measure a provision for gradual tariff autonomy. Full tariff autonomy would be granted to the Philippines with independence at the end of the 10-year period.

Recent race riots in several California cities involving Filipinos were said in the Senate today by Senator Tydings (Dem., Maryland), to present ample grounds for the granting of Philippine independence in the near future.

The immigration policy under which Japanese and Chinese are excluded and Filipinos are permitted to enter this country was described as "absolutely illogical" by Tydings.

"What should receive consideration," he added, "is the absolute justice of those people to have their own country and to run it without any interference from any other country. We have betrayed our promise to the Philippines."

Senator Johnson (Rep., California), said local authorities of his state would give the Filipinos "ample safeguards in every right" so far as possible.

Appeals for independence were voiced by Senators Dill, Washington, and Hawes, Missouri, Democrats, while Vandenberg, said legal counsel of the Senate had prepared a brief which showed there was a preponderance of opinion among legal authorities that the United States had the right to grant independence.

Johnson said he had no sympathy for those who favor independence, "so they can choke them to death economically whether by tariff legislation or otherwise," and was interested "solely in the sense of justice."

Dill said he had long favored independence, but had found it impossible to obtain consideration of the subject in Congress on a basis of "liberty and the rights of man." He said many persons were feverish or opposing independence on "selfish grounds."

Hawes objected to the way hearings on Philippine independence have been held, saying meetings had been called only once a week and that after the last meeting adjournment was taken for two weeks.

Filipino Club in Stockton, Cal., Damaged by Bomb.

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 22.—An explosion blew out the front of the Philippine center, an old mansion used as a club house here, early today. Although many Filipinos sleeping in the structure were thrown from their beds, no one was reported injured seriously.

The facade of the building, which is in one of the poorer residential sections in the southern part of the city, was hurled across the street. Police officers surrounded the structure. Powder experts said the explosion was probably caused by a blast of black powder set under the front porch.

A few minutes after the explosion reports of riots in the business district began to pour into police headquarters, but proved to be the first fight between Filipinos and whites at widely separated points.

FINDS FREE CLING PATIENTS OFTEN ARRIVE IN OWN CARS

Dr. W. A. Hall Tells Two Reasons Why Doctor Bills Are High.

Declaring that many physicians are less prosperous than some of the patients who apply for treatment at free clinics, Dr. W. A. Hall, in an address before the St. Louis Medical Society last night, stated that the high cost of medical care is the result of persons, who can well afford to pay for services, taking advantage of the free clinics, and the failure of many other patients to pay their doctor's bills.

"Clinics for those who are unable to pay are necessary, and accomplish a great deal of good, but it stirs up indignation in the mind of any physician to see his charity patients arriving at the clinics in their automobiles," Dr. Hall said.

Dr. Hall stated it has been estimated that 10,000,000 persons are treated annually in the United States free of charge, and that 40 per cent of all medical bills are never collected.

TWO IN STREET FIGHT HELD FOR HOMICIDE

Coroner's Verdict Accuses Factory Workers in Stabbing of Youth.

A verdict of homicide against two youths was returned at a coroner's inquest today in the death of Joseph Kus, 19-year-old shoemaker, 1525 Menard street, who was stabbed in a street fight at Menard and Julia streets Saturday night and died Monday at the city hospital.

Leo Clavin, 18, 1533 South Broadway, and Roy McDonald, 19, 321 Geyer avenue, both factory workers, were held under the verdict. Bond was set at $3000. Both declined to testify.

Testimony was that McDonald and Clavin and three other youths were talking to two girls on the corner, when three other youths alighted from a taxi. A disparaging remark was made and a fist fight started.

Two youths testified that Clavin used a knife in the fight, but no witness had seen Kus stabbed. Policemen testified that one of the youths had said he saw McDonald pass a knife to Clavin. At the hospital Kus said he was stabbed by "the boy in the brown overcoat." Clavin wore such a coat today.

BOULDER POWER FOR PUBLIC, SAYS HIRAM JOHNSON

AWARE OF TREND OF WILBUR'S PLANS

Norris Calls Attention to Advice to Secretary That He Can Virtually Disregard Preferential Clause.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—A warning to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur against any attempt to give private companies all the electric power to be generated by the Government plant at Boulder Dam was sounded on the floor of the Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep., California). He said that although he had kept silence thus far, he was "aware of what has been transpiring" and was prepared to combat any such scheme.

Johnson's dramatic warning was prompted by Senator Norris (Rep., Nebraska), who read to the Senate portions of a news story from Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch, telling of certain legal questions recently propounded by Wilbur to Solicitor Finney of the Interior Department, and of Finney's answers.

As was told in the story, some of the questions seemed to signify a purpose on Wilbur's part to allot all the Boulder Dam power to private interests, although states, municipalities and other public establishments have applied for the entire output of the projected plant, and the Secretary provided in the Boulder Dam act that they should have first call on the power.

Cites "Public Interest" Opinion. Norris pointed out that Wilbur had virtually asked Finney to name the conditions under which he could ignore this provision, and that Finney had answered, in substance, that general considerations of "public interest" would warrant the Secretary in disposing of the power as he saw fit, regardless of the preference clause.

"Without that clause this bill could never have become a law," Norris declared. "It was the saving provision that enabled many of us to support it. Yet now the Secretary of the Interior apparently intends to repeal it on the strength of a legal opinion from his Solicitor. Under this opinion he can act precisely as if the provision were not there, and can proceed to allot all this power to private corporations."

Bond Issues Not a Bar. After reading Wilbur's questions and Finney's answers as narrated in the Post-Dispatch, Norris went on:

"Senators will remember that we provided not only that cities and states should have a preference right to this power, but also that their applications should not be denied because of the necessity for bond issues. Secretary Wilbur has asked his Solicitor what that means. I had supposed that everyone knew what it meant. I have no doubt that every Senator knew what it meant when he voted for it. In my judgment it means what it says—that the Government shall give preference to states and municipalities applying for the power, and that their applications shall not be denied because of the necessity for bond issues. It seems plain enough."

Yet now Secretary Wilbur has an opinion from his legal adviser stating that the Secretary can give the power to private companies without ever generated by this Government plant, built with public funds. He other words, he tells him that he can nullify the most important provision in the Boulder Dam act."

Johnson supports Norris. Johnson, who with Representative Swing of California, drafted the act and led the fight for its passage in Congress, got the floor as Norris concluded.

"The Senator from Nebraska is entirely right in saying that Congress never would have passed the bill without the clause giving preference to states and municipalities," he said. "Moreover, it might remind you that the same provision occurs in the Federal water power act, on which the Boulder Dam act is based. I think we can say that every single solitary individual who was interested in the act believed absolutely that it conferred the preferential right to the people of the country."

Thus far, of course, the opinion of Solicitor Finney is mere opinion, but I am aware of what has been transpiring in relation to the matters with which the opinion deals. I have said that the people of the country have to be

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Dr. Jones Replies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MR. KUEHN, in his criticism of my sermon on prohibition in your paper of Friday afternoon, quite skillfully performed the ancient trick of constructing a man of straw, "dry" enough to be consumed by the fire of his logic. I did not argue "that acute alcoholism is a form of temporary insanity, and therefore I was not talking in clinical language of extreme cases of alcoholic psychopathy. I was talking about the ordinary cocktail-comradeship. My argument was, that to the extent that it is stimulated by alcohol, his sense of responsibility is decreased. Here is the lure of an intoxicating beverage. The overwhelming majority of people who drink do so in the effort to escape the sense of the burdens, limitations and compulsions of responsibility. That is the philosophy of "whoopie." It is the declaration of independence of all restraint, and the effort to fool oneself into the belief that once again he is an irresponsible youth.

One may keenly sympathize with this instinct of human nature, but here too is its danger. Life is made up of, and is dependent upon, the willingness and ability of people to meet their responsibilities. With the growth of population, there has come a multiplication of our dependence upon each other for health and happiness, peace and prosperity. The success of any community in making a life worth living is dependent upon the extent to which each man meets his obligations and measures up to his responsibilities. Here is the indictment against intoxicating liquor. To the extent that it is under its influence, it relieves him of the consciousness of his responsibilities, and incapacitates him for meeting his obligations. I did say, in order to make vivid the argument, "if he loses his sense of responsibility entirely, he is a deluged idiot and committed to an asylum for the safety of society. If this loss of responsibility is temporary, then he is temporarily insane." My argument does not simply apply to the extreme clinical case, cited by you. It applies to "My Lady" at a dinner party, or to the jovial fellow fed at his club.

Mr. Kuehn's analogy of "cases of dementia resulting from religious fanaticism" breaks down at the essential point, where it should be analogous. Dementia is never caused by religion. Religion may be the form of expression of the dementia, just as one may become a monomaniac on the subject of perpetual motion, or the inhabitants of Mass. or even anti-prohibition. But it is a universally admitted fact that the use of alcohol as a beverage may, and often does, itself produce a "temporary insanity," and in extreme cases it is the direct cause of the permanent wreckage of the mind.
 M. ASHBY JONES,
 Pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

Wooden Poles on Olive Street.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

JUST how long is the city of St. Louis going to allow the Public Service Co. to retain those unsightly wooden trolley poles on the south side of Olive street, west of Twelfth? The widening of Olive street was presumed to be a civic improvement, but those antiquated poles certainly are not in keeping with this improvement. The car company should be forced, if possible, to replace these poles with the more modern iron ones, or attach its wires to the new electric standards as originally planned.

As time goes on our city becomes more and more slovenly in its appearance. Let's clean house now before we get into the dumps altogether.

Radios for City Sanitarium.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DURING a recent visit to the City Sanitarium, the writer had occasion to interview Dr. R. C. Flagley, superintendent, and the doctor stated that he has 3200 patients under his care, and that 1200 of them are friendless. The doctor was asked as to how the patients put in their days. He stated that they just sit around and waited for time to pass. He said that he has three radios in the institution, one of which is operating. The others are not equipped with tubes or batteries and consequently of no value for entertainment. The doctor stated that there are 10 wards in the institution and that he would like to have a radio of some sort for each ward. He says that although these patients may be lacking in some things, a large percentage of them are aware of what is going on in the world outside, and that music would do them a world of good.

Contributions of old radios and accessories, such as loud speakers, storage batteries, tubes for battery sets, B batteries, and in fact anything in the radio accessory or part line can be used. Arrangements have been made for free service and labor for repairing these sets and parts will be repaired at cost. No one will make any money out of this.

WHY IT MUST SUCCEED.

The London conference has not as yet yielded any startling news. The chances are it never will. The one truly sensational story that the party could produce is failure. Failure seems too improbable for consideration. The reason is plain. The nations have got to cut down their naval budgets. They cannot afford to keep up the present competitive building race.

The naval budgets of the five conferring Powers aggregate annually $1,000,000,000. Our share of that total is $374,000,000. The United States, despite its great wealth, is finding this bill a heavy load. To the other nations it is almost ruinous. So the only way out is to reduce. The difficulties of framing an acceptable program may be enormous. But the national pocketbook is, after all, the final authority. That authority orders retrenchment.

An illuminating survey of American naval costs has been presented by Chairman French of the Subcommittee on Naval Appropriations, in the New York Times. He discusses the bill item by item. Battleships: Present cost of construction is from $5 to $40 millions. The operation and maintenance of the battleship California last year was $2,319,652.40. We have 15 battleships, to be replaced by 15 under the Washington treaty. That will call for an expenditure of $600,000,000, unless revision downward is effected at London.

Airplane carriers: Construction cost about the same as that of battleships. Operation and maintenance of two of these ships, the Lexington and the Saratoga, are described by Mr. French as "staggering."

It costs $10,000,000 to build a 10,000-ton cruiser, which costs $1,250,000 a year.

A submarine of 2000 tons costs $8,000,000. Operation and maintenance, $435,000.

Since the Washington conference Chairman French has reported six supply bills carrying a total of $1,800,000,000. Was the Washington conference a failure? Mr. French says not. Burdensome as costs are, they would have been far greater except for the limitation on capital ships. The mistake of that conference was the absence of limitation on all types of craft. It did limit individual tonnage and specified certain gun restrictions, but, practically, it left the auxiliary field wide open. And that conference had hardly adjourned before the race was on in competitive construction of cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

The problem at London is to do what the Washington conference did not do. There must be limitation numerically and in size in all categories. One disappointment has already occurred, which the New Republic has remarked—the American delegation's refusal to accept Mr. MacDonald's proposal to abolish battleships. It quotes Mr. Hoover's Armistice day speech:

Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations. We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that, it only remains for others to say how low they will go. It cannot be too low for us.

Apparently we have retreated from that brave and inviting position. Disavowing any intention to pass premature judgment, the New Republic conjectures that our rejection of the MacDonald proposal may be strategic; that in the bargaining yet to come we may find a more effective opportunity for agreeing to junk the battleship which, in the opinion of many competent critics, is really obsolete. The deduction seems plausible.

But the driving compulsion at London is economic. One may not discount the ideal of peace and of a world living in amity and composing the recurrent differences between nations by the processes of civilization, the machinery for which is now installed and operating. There is inspiration in that vision. But the impoverishment of peoples by the preparations for war is a folly which the statesmanship of today, under the lash of public opinion, recognizes as intolerable. That is why the London conference will, we believe, proceed through laborious, undramatic negotiations to achieve its end.

Militarism has got to take its hand out of the taxpayer's pocket.

AN EXCEPTION TO THE RULE.

Since we so often have occasion to complain of the slowness of American justice, it is only fair to note an exception to the rule. We refer to the quick disposition of the 12 officers and employees who plundered the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, Mich. Led by John S. De Camp, former senior vice president and director, they are now on their way to prison, having been sentenced yesterday on pleas of guilty. It was approximately three months ago that their fraudulent use of bank funds was discovered. To close a case in 90 days is, as American processes of justice go, as fast as greased lightning.

RENASCENT RUMANIA.

Rumania's award of a $100,000,000 construction contract to an American and German group of builders shows how that country has outgrown its former policy of hostility to foreign capital. Highways, lighting systems, schools, 50,000 "model homes" for Government workers and a few capital buildings are included in the contract. The National-Rumanian party, which has ruled Rumania a little more than a year, has launched a program of development such as the country has never seen before. Rumania's area and population more than doubled as a result of the World War treaties, and new problems arose which no Government until the present has been able to handle.

The peasants of Rumania, roused in spirit by the war and its aftermath, refused to be governed longer by the so-called Liberal party, which is in spirit if not in name the successor of the defunct Rumanian Conservative group. On coming into power the peasant party hastened to reverse the political and economic policies of its predecessors. As a result Rumania has become a democracy instead of a centralized state which in its latter days under Liberal rule verged toward a dictatorship on the Fascist model. The strange hold of the large land owners has been broken, by peaceful means, and the peasants now hold 90 per cent of the arable land. Agriculture is being modernized, and education is being spread among the people.

Government of a modern nation by its peasants is an innovation, but the Rumanian group, like the Labor party in England, has proved its capacity to rule. By banishing vested interests from the administration it has been possible to free industry and trade from state interference, to stabilize national finances, to hold the first free elections in the nation's history, to have peace with the numerous racial minor-ties and to develop the country's natural resources. The Rumanian program has been called the most comprehensive liberal policy adopted by any European Government since the war.

The Rumanian people have a noble tradition, dating back to the Romans and the ancient Dacians. It is a significant sign for the world to see them emerge with new strength from the dark days of the war and the reconstruction.

INSPECTOR LEES AND THE KANSAS CITY CRASH.

In the second commercial aviation tragedy of recent days, a Central Airlines plane crashed at Kansas City, killing the pilot and four passengers. Pending an inquest into the causes of the accident, Dr. L. E. Fisher, Deputy Coroner, gave orders that the wreckage was not to be disturbed. However, within an hour, employees of Universal Aviation Corporation, of which Central Airlines is a subsidiary, removed the shattered plane.

Replying to protests by county authorities against this failure to observe the Deputy Coroner's instructions, aviation company officials said they had received permission from Richard E. Lees, Department of Commerce aeronautical inspector, to clear up the wreck. Lees corroborated this statement, and made this explanation: "We are trying to sell aviation to the public, and the wreckage of a plane lying around for people to gaze at has a bad effect."

That is a most extraordinary statement. It implies what is emphatically not true, that the United States Government is in effect a business partner of commercial aviation companies, willing to obscure the causes of a fatal crash in order to carry out the mission of "selling" aviation. This is to us an entirely new governmental doctrine, which has never been heard of before and is not likely to be expounded again if Mr. Lees' superiors take the proper action.

Besides the absurd interpretation of the Government's function, where did Mr. Lees get authority to override the duly constituted local officials charged with the duty of investigating and ascertaining the causes of death to five persons? The answer is that he had no such authority. Such zealous friends of commercial aviation are its worst enemies. The public understands that occasional accidents are the price of aviation progress, but it will not tolerate efforts to prevent a full and free analysis of them.

We trust the Department of Commerce will be at pains to limit the activities and curb the officious enthusiasm of its aeronautical inspectors.

THE FOSSY SPEAKER.

Nicholas Longworth is getting fussy. An urbane, accomplished person who has acquitted himself gayly in the jostle of politics, a bit of dilettante, perhaps, but taking neither life nor himself too seriously, we find him lately in querulous and capricious mood. His resentment, for instance, at the customary designation of the House of Representatives as the lower house and the Senate as the upper house. The implied inferiority rankles. He demands parity in appellation as in fact. As if it made any difference. And they do say that the social feud between Mrs. Longworth and Mrs. Gann was inspired, not by the delightful "Princess Alice," who doesn't care a hairpin about precedence, but by her supersensitive consort. The Speaker was so much more attractive as a polished pagan, joying in the camaraderie of official life and smiling quizzically at its solemnities.

ANOTHER CRITIC OF MISSOURI'S PRISON.

"A breeding place for crime" is the latest epithet applied to the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City by an investigator. He is Austin McCormick, assistant superintendent of Federal prisons, who justifies the phrase by saying: "Ninety per cent of those leaving the prison have no chance of coming out any better citizens than they were when they entered."

The people of Missouri have heard such comment before. A few months ago the National Society of Penal Information summed up its survey with the statement: "The institution is doing more to contribute to crime in the State than to prevent it." Senator Palmer in his report to the State Survey Commission remarked on the crowding, which he said bred immorality and crime. He cited the danger of riots and outbreaks, asserting these would undoubtedly result in "a very considerable loss of life."

The people of Missouri will continue to hear these attacks until the conditions are remedied. If the present situation persists too long the criticisms may be punctuated by an outbreak like those that have occurred at Auburn, Dannemora and Canon City. Since the Missouri prison is one of the three largest in the country, a riot would be of no small proportion.

The Survey Commission's recommendations include expenditure of $5,000,000 to improve prison conditions. An important part of the proposed program is purchase of 10,000 acres of land, sufficient to give farm employment to 1000 men. This would relieve congestion at the prison, where about 4000 men are housed in facilities intended for 2000, and where as many as six men are kept in cells described as "possibly tolerable for one or two." The recommended intermediate prison is a preventive of the corruption of first offenders by contact with hardened criminals.

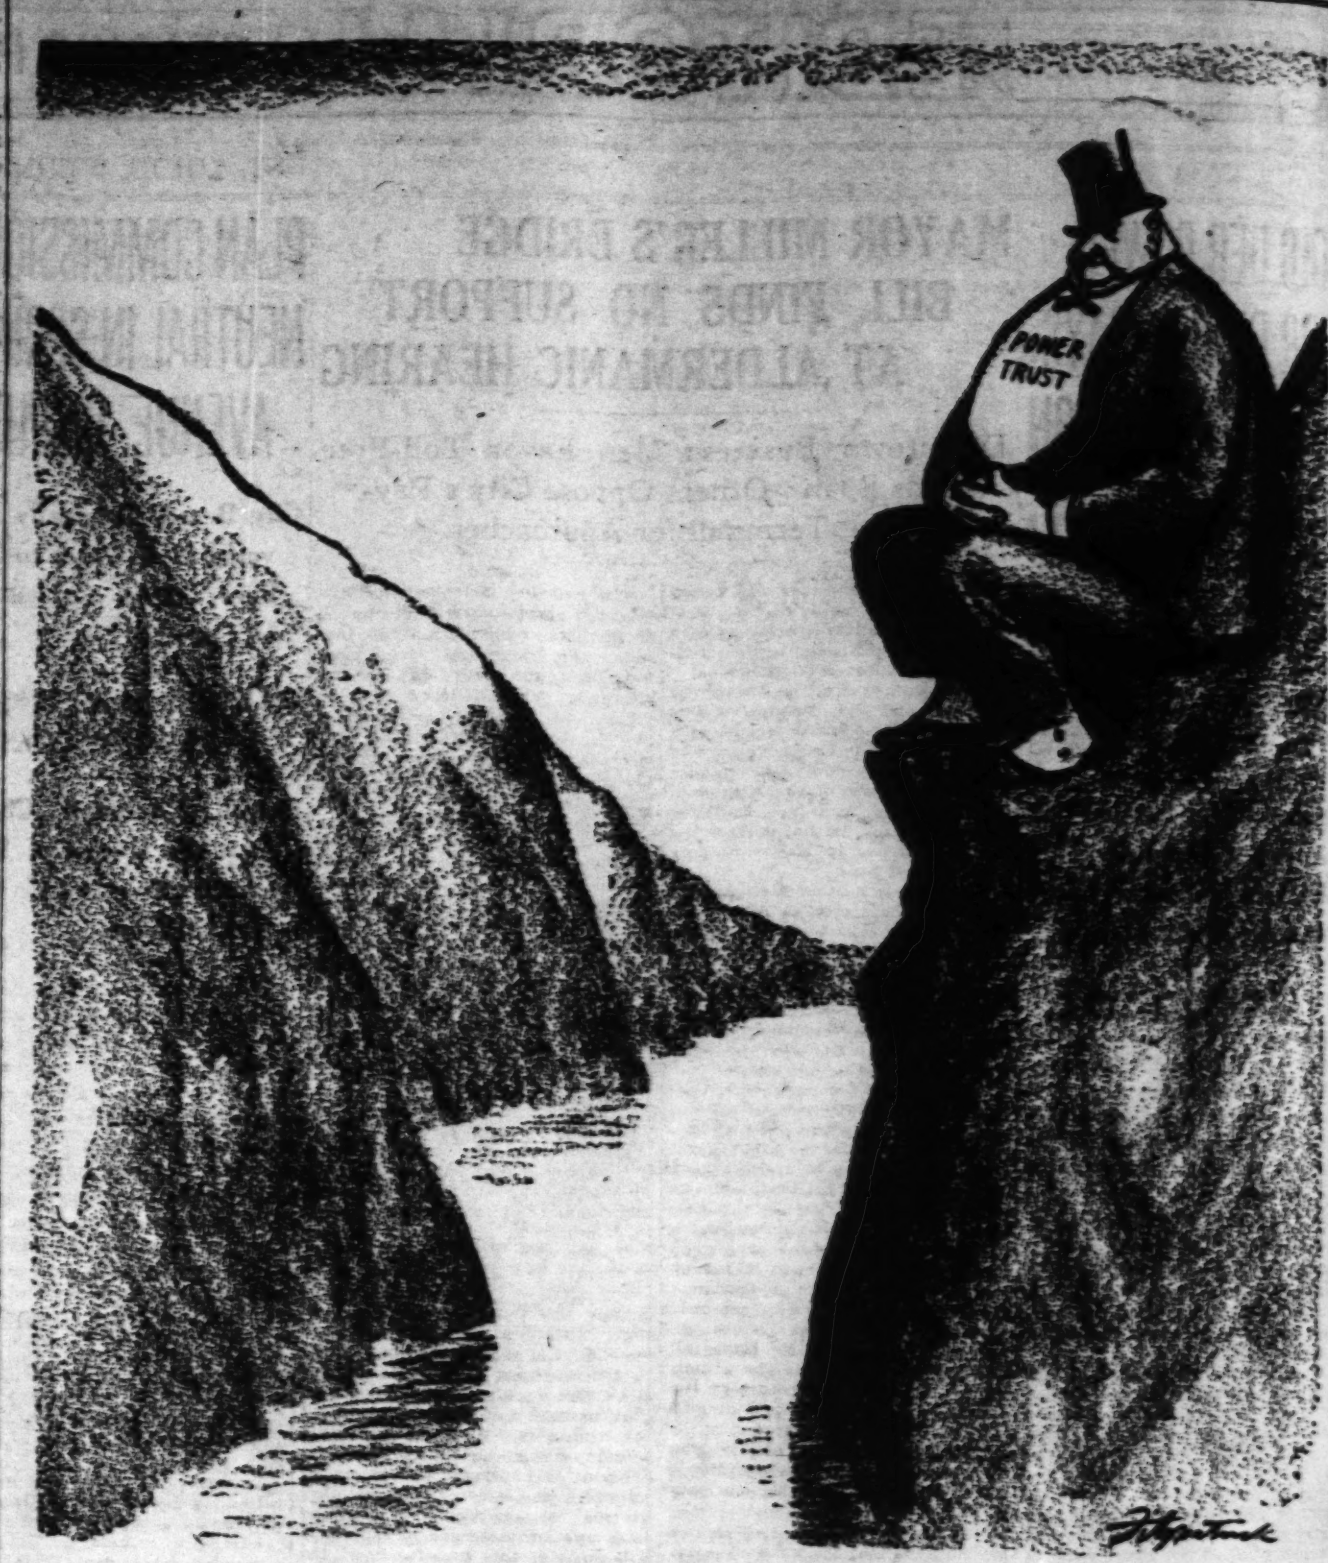

These proposals of the Survey Commission demand consideration. As long as people are being sent to prison in droves, the State has an obligation to care for them humanely, so they may return to a place in decent society. Missouri, ranking tenth in wealth among the States, cannot afford the dangers of a prison to which observers refer as a "pest house."

CHICAGO'S HARDY CROP.

Whatever success other followers of horticulture may have had, 1929 was a successful year for the pineapple planters of Chicago. The crop report, as issued by the Employers' Association, shows the total output was a trifle smaller, but the returns were greater. In other words, Chicago suffered 115 bomb outrages in 1929, as compared with 116 in 1928. The damage averaged $960 per explosion in 1928, and last year rose to an average of $713 for each bomb.

The professional bomber, a partner of the gangster and the racketeer, is a comparatively new phenomenon in American crime. That his skill in wanton destruction is improving is shown by the Chicago statistics. The most cowardly of criminals he is one of the most difficult to run down. He has become a major problem in Chicago but lives and prospers in other cities, including St. Louis, also are subject to his menace. Only the most determined prosecution of organized crime can stamp out the evil.

It is hard to tell whether Primo de Rivera is afraid or on horseback.

ALL SET TO TAKE OVER BOULDER DAM.

The Philippines and the Tariff

Matter of Filipino independence now has become mere by-product of tariff bill; free trade with islands gives competition to beet sugar and vegetable oil producers; Western Congressmen change stand, veering to favor freeing possession; welfare of 12,000,000 people not considered in discussion of domestic import policy.

From the New York World.

THE next few weeks may be big with fate for the Filipino people. The King resolution providing for the establishment of an independent government in their islands now lies before the Senate Committee on Territories and Insular Affairs, and hearings will begin as soon as a special delegation from Manila reaches the capital. This delegation, headed by Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, and Pedro Gil, minority leader of the House, will be joined by the two Resident Commissioners from the Philippines in Washington, in urging complete self-government for the islands.

The absence of Manuel Quizon, former president of the Philippine Senate, from this delegation has attracted attention. Senator Quizon is one of the most vigorous champions of Philippine independence and in 1919 and again in 1926 he made a tour of the United States in behalf of the cause. His failure to accompany the new delegation may possibly reflect the change of attitude which is reported to have taken place on the part of some of the Filipino leaders toward the Nationalist movement. Whether or not this is the case, it is certain that these leaders have reason to view with little misgiving the sudden zeal for Philippine independence which has sprung up in and out of Congress among groups which have formerly regarded this question with indifference.

It is no tender regard for the Filipinos which has prompted this new movement in behalf of their political freedom. The movement is a by-product of the new tariff bill. The farm bloc at the beginning of the special session of Congress last spring insisted that restrictions be imposed on imports from the Philippines which came into competition with agricultural products from the United States. This policy was aimed especially at sugar, coconut oil and copra, which compete with domestic beet sugar and vegetable oils and indirectly offer some competition also to the American dairy industry.

The effort to have Congress impose a definite limit on the amount of sugar which might be imported free of duty from the Philippines was effectively marked, when Secretary Stimson, recently returned from the islands, where he had served as Governor-General, went before the Ways and Means Committee and convinced its members that any such restriction would be economic disaster in the Philippines. The committee thereupon refused to impose any tariff on Philippine products, and the Senate Committee followed its example. It has since become evident that a substantial majority in both houses of Congress is opposed to treating the Philippines as a foreign country for tariff purposes.

Debated in their first drive, the advocates of restrictions on Philippine imports have directed their attack toward another quarter. If free trade with the islands goes with the flag, they say to get rid of free trade is to haul down the flag. And so we see Representative Strong of Kansas, long an opponent to independence, veering around and declaring that "the Philippines are a liability to us from every standpoint. . . . I am in favor now of bidding them goodnight and Godspeed and having no further responsibility whatever for their continued independence."

The six Democratic members of the committee are expected to support this measure, because independence for the islands has long been a tenet of their party. Of the eight Republican members, two are insurgents who are expected to vote with the Democrats. If the Democratic-Insurgent coalition in the Senate holds together on this question, the resolution will be adopted.

Senator Bingham, chairman of this committee, is an opponent of the resolution and in advance of the hearings he has prepared a substitute providing for a commission of representative Americans and Filipinos, to be appointed by the President, and to meet in Manila next September. This body will be empowered to employ experts and to subpoena witnesses and would submit recommendations to Congress fixing the future constitutional, political and economic status of the islands.

Senator Bingham's resolution has the two-fold merit of preventing the precipitate action desired by certain farm leaders solely for reasons of trade and of directing attention both in the United States and in the Philippines to the complicated problems involved in the severance of political ties between the country and its easternmost insular possessions. While the Senate is at present disposed to report the King resolution, that measure has much less chance of passage in the House, despite the sudden conversion of many Western Representatives to the cause of independence.

It is not an inspiring sight to see a matter which affects so vitally the welfare of 12,000,000 people trifled with as a mere by-product of tariff legislation. Due regard for our solemnly assumed obligations should constrain us to consider this question first of all with an eye to the interests of the Filipinos. The American Government is unequivocally pledged to Philippine independence, but there is room for honest differences of opinion whether this should be granted immediately or after a period of further preparation. In any case the matter should not be treated as a mere incident of trade policy, and it might be well to postpone its consideration by Congress until the tariff bill is entirely out of the way.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.

ON the Democratic side of the Senate chamber, next to the aisle, sits a small, soft-voiced man, the senior Senator from North Carolina. Directly in front of him sits a white-haired, kindly man of distinguished bearing, the junior Senator from North Carolina.

It would be a difficult task to find a parallel to the lives and careers of the two—Furnifold Simmons and Lee Slater Overman. They were born in the same month of the same year. They went to the same college at the same time. Upon graduation both entered the profession of law. Both entered public life in the same State. And they came to the United States Senate only three years apart, Overman in 1926, Simmons in 1929.

At 74 they are as active as any members of the Senate.

It was an impressive moment the other day when Senators quit battling on tariff schedules long enough to pay tribute to these two men. Their birthdays are in January—13 days apart.

Republicans joined Democrats in praising the two North Carolina Senators. In fact, it was Jim Watson who suggested that time be taken for that purpose. It was Walsh of Massachusetts, a Democrat, who perhaps came nearer to expressing his colleagues' feeling for the two than any other. Of Overman, Walsh said:

"He always seemed to me to typify more than any other member of this body the picture we are apt to have of the old Roman toga-clad Senator—dignified, courteous, courteous. . . . I have noticed often that visitors to the gallery have pointed him out and referred to him as a member of the body of distinguished bearing."

Of Simmons, Walsh said that he has been "a source of inspiration to all of us. . . . His devotion and fidelity to public duty have been truly remarkable."

Simmons and Overman are the warmest of personal as well as political friends. While they have disagreed many times on public questions, neither can recall of ever having a personal clash either in or outside the Senate.

They astonish their colleagues with the amount of work they do. Overman is in his desk every morning by 9:15 when Congress is in session, and it is late in the afternoon before he starts for home. Simmons is just as energetic. Upon his shoulders falls the burden of opposing the increased tariff rates.

Washington sees little of them outside the Senate, for neither cares for the social life in the capital. Overman whiles away the evening hours at his hotel listening to the radio. Simmons takes a long drive in an automobile, his principal form of recreation. Simmons, too, stays in almost all of the time thinking up new tariff arguments.

A Soviet Play

RED RUST—By V. Kirshon and A. Ouspensky. Adapted from the Russian by Virginia and Frank Vernon (Brentano's).

This play in three acts and eight scenes calls for notice if for no other reason than that it is said to be a study of Soviet life and was written by two Russian dramatists of the day.

Whether or not we may think we have the Soviet social experiment, it must be granted as a strong probability in view of what is happening in Europe and in America, that the future of our society may be determined in the Russian social laboratory, which includes a vast population and something like one-fourth of the earth's surface.

"Red Rust" was first produced at the Moscow Proletarian Theatre two years ago, and was presented for the first time in America by the New York Theatre Guild during December. The present writer took the book up eagerly, hoping to catch some gleam of new light upon the Soviet experiment which conceivably may condition the lines of our children and grand-children for good or ill. After three hours of reading, the book was closed with that old familiar sinking of the heart which is the result of wading through at least 75 per cent of contemporary literature.

Whether or not there be truth in the book, this writer has no way of knowing, for books written about Russia are so conflicting that to leave one in a muddle. So, as it is now working, may be as bad as this play would seem to indicate, and maybe not. But one fact does stand out like a bull on the end of a nose—the play was conceived and written upon as low a level as could be consistent with any recognizable human characteristic.

The action is concerned with the sex relations of a petty Soviet official who acquires decency, honesty and all the other imponderables that have cost the human race so much suffering to develop, and that alone can distinguish a man from the brute. This official preaches that all such notions are "middle class" and therefore not to be distinguished from the rest of the plot is not worth sketching. Such stories are common in the police courts of the world.

It may be said that the purpose of the playwright was to expose bestiality. May we say he is at least curious that practically nothing else is revealed and that the play should be full of childish cussing and outrageous vulgarity. One gathers that the lady and the hoodlums who make up the greater portion of the dramatic personnel are far less decent than dogs. Someone may ask: Why not ignore such books? The answer is: Enticing men.

RED RUST—By V. Kirichon and A. Ouspensky. Adapted from the Russian by Virginia and Frank Vernon (Brentano's).

Sovietism, as it is now working, may be as bad as this play would seem to indicate, and maybe not. Someone may ask: Why not ignore such books? The answer is—No.

that unfortunately they characterize the main stream of contemporary literature, which is to say that they represent the dominant temper of the contemporary consciousness. Furthermore, many of the most powerful critical voices profess to claim them. Thousands upon thousands, perhaps millions, of people are still outside this current, it is true; nevertheless they shall not be able to escape its ultimate meaning, ignore it as they may, here may be some here and there who would contend that literature is not so important as to justify any alarm, whatever its character may be. But literature, whether we understand the fact or not, is a means of vicarious living, and as such it may be symptomatic of something vitally important at the very source of life.

GREAT MODERN SHORT STORIES Edited by Grant Overton. (The Modern Library.) This new issue in the generally excellent Modern Library series contains the following stories: Conrad's The Heart of Darkness; Hemingway's The Three-Day Blow; Galworthy's The Apple Tree; Willa Cather's Paul's Case; Sherwood Anderson's I'm a Fool; D. H. Lawrence's The Prussian Officer; Katherine Mansfield's Miss Brill; Galsworthy's The Runaways; F. Scott Fitzgerald's At Your Age; Joyce's Counterparts; Maugham's The Letter. Mr. Overton has furnished an introduction.

A section in the existing tariff bill gives the power of censorship over imported literature to Customs inspectors and courts, and the impending tariff bill, it seems, contains a section designed to increase that power. An organization with headquarters in Washington, D. C., is now circulating a petition to Congress requesting that body not only to decline to extend this power of censorship but to remove the existing power. However one might deplore the main trend of modern literature, it would be foolish to suppose that censorship can solve the problem involved, since the problem involved is fundamentally economic and social. The attempt to wipe out such literature by censoring it is equivalent to hiding the eruptions of measles by way of getting over the measles, or powwowing about the desirability of peace while overlooking the cause of war.

TO HIM THAT ENDURETH. By James A. Herndon. (The Caxton Printers, Caldwell, Idaho.) The simple story of a young man who migrated to Idaho to make a living, in the early days when only men of courage, initiative and determination could succeed. The author, a native of the Gem State, draws an attractive picture of the pioneer period, when mining was enticing men to take the long trail into a wild, rugged country, where only the fittest could survive.

A fine love story is woven into the narrative of the adventures of the pioneers. Also, the melodramatic villain has his due place, coming to his tragic end in proper movie style. After which the story seems to lag, the hero winning his wife and deserved fortune. On the whole, this panorama of the settling of the romantic Salmon River region in the most picturesque part of the State, is worth while, and will be found interesting not only to Idahoans but to all who value honest portrayals of life in America when the covered wagon carried settlers into the wilds to fight with nature in the founding of a nation. News has reached St. Louis of the marriage Saturday in Indianapolis of Miss Gladys Janice Swinford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Swinford of that city, and Millard Fillmore Bingham III, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Bingham, 2647 Flora place. The ceremony took place at the Grace Episcopal Church by the light from tall candles which lined the aisle, and chancel steps, and were arranged in the greenery at the altar. The Rev. Dr. John Brett Langstaff officiated.

Miss Lois Keller was maid of honor; Miss Gladys Shadle, Water-town, N. Y., and Mrs. H. W. Hammond, Hammond, Ind., bridesmaids. Fred P. Bingham, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Marcelus Grove, also of St. Louis and William Riley Swinford Jr., groomsmen.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in chiffon frocks fashioned with cape backs, long sleeves and full skirts with short trains. Miss Keller was in powder blue. Mrs. Hammond in dahlia and Miss Shadle in soft green, with hats to match. They were hats to match and carried pink roses.

The bride wore ivory satin, made simple with a very long satin train cut from squares of satin attached to the V hip line of the low bodice. Instead of a veil she wore a cap of lace made long in the back with the lace touching her shoulders, and carried calla lilies.

A reception supper at the Columbia Club. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham went by airplane to Chicago, and will sail from New York Feb. 1 for the West Indies. They will make their home in Wheaton, Ill. The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Cornell University. She is a member of Alpha Phi and Mr. Bingham of Pi Beta Phi.

A party was given last Thursday at the Bevo Mill by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Bettelken of 3638 Kingshighway Park in honor of their daughter, Rose Marjorie Bettelken.

FRED F. BIXBY FUNERAL

Service Held Today

Coroner's Jury Returns Open Verdict in Death From Monoxide Gas.

Funeral services for Fred Foster Bixby, who was found dead of carbon monoxide gas poisoning in a garage at his home, 270 Blackmer avenue, Webster Groves, Monday night, were held today from the Parker Undertaking Co., 15 West Lockwood boulevard, Webster Groves. Burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned an open verdict, stating that it was impossible to determine whether Bixby's death was by suicide or accident. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bixby, testified that her husband had been in ill-health for six years and had threatened to end his life during periods of depression several years ago, but had refrained from the threat recently. He was found beside an automobile the engine of which was racing, policeman testified.

Bixby, who was 35 years old, was manager of the material department of the American Car & Foundry Co. and previously had been connected with the Missouri Pacific and Wabash railroads. He was a brother of William K. Bixby, capitalist.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. NEW YORK'S famed Four Hundred has banished to Fifteen Thousand. At least, that is the number of names in the new Social Register—the official "Who's Who" of the swell. No one is ever dropped. Those who seem to be have merely not filed applications. Many names in the tome are not actually in society. They are appended as wives or husbands of the favored. Col. Charles Lindbergh, who has a habit of landing in strange places, landed in the Register over a night. He appeared, without effort, what others vainly sought for years.

The only person ever to ask withdrawal was a celebrated dowager who objected to the advertising mail her appearance in it inspired. Any person with the social urge may make application, but having it accepted is something else again.

There is an Advisory Committee which decides upon the fitness of the ambitious. The personnel of this august body is shrouded in deep mystery, although it is reputed to have six members. When they turn down an application, there is no appeal.

So eager are some of the new rich to achieve the illustrious classification that one enthusiast is said to have offered $100,000 to the person who could secure him the recognition. The book is sold for $5 and anyone may purchase a copy.

The Social Register grew out of what the mauve decade knew as "The List." This was prepared in the beginning by Maurice V. Minster from his mother's visiting list and was circulated privately. There were not then 400 who qualified.

The biggest sale of the volume is reputed to be among brokers and financial houses which found it valuable in investment promotions. Eleven cities outside of New York have discontinued Social Registers, chiefly because of a lack of interest.

IN the past two years, 488 unknowns have had first books published. Among authors were three sailors, two marines, a chorine girl, a speakeasy proprietor, a dishwasher, a hotel night clerk, eight press agents, a valet, a typewriter salesman and a theater ticket taker.

BUT the most conspicuous success of all was that of Chis Sale, who had never written a line for print until he turned out "The Specialist." The book has passed the 1,000,000 mark in sales and Chis's last royalty statement—I saw the check—was for $25,000.

PUBLIC eagerness for the robust output of untrained scribblers has resulted in a more careful scrutiny of all manuscripts in magazine offices. The penciled chirographical horrors written on both sides of the paper that used to be tossed aside with a glance are now receiving several expert readings.

THREE gentlemen have been publicly slapped by ladies recently because the latter felt they were being scandalized by gossip. Two of the victims took it on the cheek with blushing and hurried away, but the third sagged into a chair at a nearby table and had a good cry.

IN old Martin's one night a beautifully gowned actress walked up to a table and slapped a famous architect, who was sitting with his wife. He dropped on his knees and crawled under tables until he reached an exit, which is my notion of super-diplomacy.

PERFECT smiler: "As homeless as smoke."

REGARDING your article of last Thursday," writes R. F. G. "do you know who said: 'L'Etat, c'est moi'?" Not exactly, but we bet a cookie it was some fool Frenchman. (Copyright, 1930.)

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.

ON the Democratic side of the Senate chamber, next to the aisle, sits a small, soft-voiced man, the senior Senator from North Carolina. Directly in front of him sits a white-haired, kindly man of distinguished bearing, the junior Senator from North Carolina.

It would be a difficult task to find a parallel to the lives and careers of the two—Furnifold Simmons and Lee Slater Overman. They were born in the same month of the same year. They went to the same college at the same time. Upon graduation both entered the profession of law. Both entered public life in the same State. And they came to the United States Senate only two years apart, Overman in 1903, Simmons in 1901.

At 74 they are as active as any members of the Senate.

IT was an impressive moment the other day when Senators quit battling on tariff schedules long enough to pay tribute to these two men. Their birthdays are in January—13 days apart.

Republicans joined Democrats in praising the two North Carolina Senators. In fact, it was Jim Watson who suggested that time be taken for that purpose. It was Walsh of Massachusetts, a Democrat, who perhaps came nearer to expressing his colleagues' feeling for the two than any other of Overman, Walsh said:

"He always seemed to me to typify more than any other member of this body the picture we are apt to have of the old Roman toga-clad Senator—dignified, courteous, . . . I have noticed often that visitors to the gallery have pointed him out and referred to him as a member of the body of distinguished bearing."

Of Simmons, Walsh said that he has been "a source of inspiration to all of us. . . His devotion and fidelity to public duty have been truly remarkable."

SIMMONS and Overman are the warmest of personal as well as political friends. While they have disagreed many times on public questions, neither can recall of ever having a personal clash either in or outside the Senate.

They antiship their colleagues with the amount of work they do. Overman is at his desk every morning by 8:15 when Congress is in session, and it is late in the afternoon before he starts for home. Simmons is just as energetic. Upon his shoulders has fallen the burden of opposing the increased tariff rates.

Washington sees little of them outside the Senate, for neither cares for the social life in the capital. Overman whiles away the evening hours at his hotel, listening to the radio. Sometimes he takes a long ride in an automobile. His principal form of recreation, Simmons, too, stays in close most of the time thinking up new tariff arguments.

THIS EXPLAINS A LOT.

1930 Will Call For Sound Business Management

HERE are very few who predict that 1930 will witness a serious industrial depression.

Yet, it is generally conceded that prosperity this year will be "selective"—meaning that sound, well-managed business enterprises will show favorable earnings, while those which in the past have merely ridden on the crest of general prosperity may suffer.

Much will depend upon sound financial policies. The co-operation of a time-tested banking institution, such as the Mississippi Valley Merchants State Trust Company, is an invaluable aid to business executives.

Our officers are always available for consultation.

Charged of $57 Estate Fund.
MADON, Mo., Jan. 23.—Judge
Drain yesterday directed a verdict of acquittal for B. R. Williams, former Probate Judge, on trial for the alleged embezzlement of $57.53

from the estate of Thomas O.
Evans, New Cambria. The State contended executors of the estate had given Williams a check for the amount of the inheritance tax and that Williams did not turn over the money to the State Treasurer.

Judge Drain held the State had failed to show the money paid Williams was from the funds of the

FOR U. S. CONTROL OF RADIO ON HOUSE PHONE CIRCUITS

Gen. Squier, Inventor of Device, Appears at Hearing on Census Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Federal control of a device which he said enabled radio programs to be sent into homes over telephone circuits was recommended today by Rep. George O. Squier, Republican, in testimony before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which is holding hearings on the Censuses communications bill.

Squier, inventor of the device, said it could be installed cheaply and would eliminate static and replace expensive radio sets.

The only obstacle to its development, Squier told the committee,
was the inability of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to take over installation, due to expansion of its business.

Squier added he thought a new commission should have power to tell the telephone and telegraph companies what to do and
"if they don't, push them into it."

The Censuses bill would group radio, telephones, telegraph and cable companies under the regulation of a new commission.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Jan. 23.— Mrs. May McCall, 49 years old, was shot and instantly killed early this

McCall said burglars had been

early this morning when he heard a noise at the kitchen door he shot
without further investigation.

DEMOCRATS RAKED BY PROGRESSIVES FOR RAYON VOTE

labor. Yet here is a duty that takes money from the working people of this country and gives it to a combination of foreign capitalists who control the rayon industry in the United States.

Practically the only people who will benefit from this duty are the De Post interests—among the richest in the United States—and the foreign rayon combine, which has established its factories in this country. How can such a vote be defended?

Both Missouri Senators were recorded in favor of the higher duty, Senator Patterson (Rep.), voting against Wheeler's proposal to lower the duty, and Senator Hawes (Dem.), being paired against it.

Examination of the financial statements of the larger rayon interests tends to corroborate Norris' description of them.

According to Moody's manual, 35 per cent of the rayon production of the world is controlled of a foreign cartel composed of Courtauld's, a British corporation, Verelstigde Giamstoff Fabriken,
a German corporation, and the Siala Viscosa, of Turin, Italy.

Courtauld's, though British owned, controls the Viscosa company in this country, which has six plants in Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. Courtauld's need of protection is vividly illustrated by its annual report for 1923, which discloses earnings of over 64 per cent on its preferred stock and 19
per cent on its common.

Since 1918 it has paid dividends of from 11 1/2 per cent, the lowest, to 40 per cent, with most of the years paying over 25 per cent. In 19 years the dividend fell as low as 15 per cent only twice, and there three stock dividends of 66, 100
and 200 per cent, respectively.

The German member of the world monopoly, the Verelstigde Giamstoff Co., controls the American Giamstoff and the Associated Rayon Corporation, a $40,000,000
concern which was incorporated in Maryland in 1923. The German company also controls the American Giamstoff in Tennessee, the American Bemberg at the same place, and the American Enka at Ashton, N. C. It controls other companies in Italy, Austria, Japan and Holland. It guarantees 19 1923 a 6 per cent dividend on the cumulative preferred stock of the Associated Rayon Corporation.

Its financial statements give among its dividend rates during the last ten years such figures as 27, 30, 15, 18, 18 per cent, and in 1923 one of 100 per cent.

A Cynical G. O. P. View.
Cynical Republicans, mindful of Democratic criticism of the activities of Joseph R. Grundy, and their horror at his raising huge sums from manufacturers for the Republican campaign fund and then coming to Washington to get tariff favors, recalled rather gloom-ily today some of the large contributions to the last Democratic National campaign fund, and wondered if it suggested any explanation of the rayon vote.

They pointed to the Steiwer report on campaign expenditures showing that the du Ponts contributed a total of $129,599.27 to the Democratic fund in 1923. They also called attention to the fact that Lehman Bros. of New York
were the bankers of the American Giamstoff Corporation and of the Associated Rayon Corporation and that the Lehman family contributed to the Democratic fund $182,000
as follows: Herbert H. Lehman, $105,000; Edith A. Lehman (wife of Herbert H.), $44,000; Arthur Lehman, $33,000.

Republicans of a mischievous
turn hinted today that these facts will have further publicity if the Democrats ever mention Grundy
again or talk about the "interests of the consumer." Without probating any virtue on their own part—since they also voted for a high duty on rayon—they suggested that "after all, we are all tarred
with the same brush."

Single prescription made a family doctor

famous

SELDOM has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than the one which Dr. Caldwell performed back in 1883 when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote this prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, unpleasant breath, headache, biliousness, poor appetite, or lack of energy, etc. And it invariably relieved these symptoms so much more pleasantly, so much quicker than other things, that his patients simply had to tell other people about it.

The demand for this prescription grew so fast that by 1885 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use and supply drug stores with it. Today you can get the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, at all drug stores.

When you or your children suffer from any of the symptoms of constipation, it will pay you to remember this safe, pleasant, effective laxative; made only from herbs and other pure ingredients; a real corrective for constipation. A doctor's 67-year experience behind this formula!

SAVS FELLOW-INTERNE STOLE HIS MEDICAL CERTIFICATE

Dr. Marks of Lutheran Hospital Accuses Youth Falsely as Heideberg Graduate. A young German student who came to St. Louis a month ago with a scar on his chin and some certificates as evidence of his medical training at the University of Heidelberg—he explained the scar had been acquired in a duel—won the sympathy of several St. Louis doctors who found a place for him as an interne at Lutheran Hospital, 2646 Potomac street. Monday he left without notice, and at the same time another interne missed these certificates: A St. Louis University Medical School diploma; a State medical license; an acknowledgment that he had served as interne at Jewish Hospital for one year; a high school diploma; a commission as a First Lieutenant in the Medical Reserve Corps, and a medical fraternity membership certificate. Dr. Joseph Marks, resident interne whose credentials are missing, has asked for the arrest of the student. Dr. Marks said he had told the new interne he intended to go to California to practice, and at his suggestion had removed the certificates from frames and placed them in a dresser drawer, "where they would be safe."

PLAN COMMISSION NEUTRAL IN SPRING AVENUE DISPUTE

The Post-Dispatch recently. Bartholomew told the commission there might be a technical legal objection to the use of street bond money, but that the idea was feasible and should meet with no real objection. It was reported that a depressed roadway is being considered for the extension of Theresa avenue north of Bell avenue, across the site of the Hadley Vocational School. The Board of Education is co-operating in trying to bring about this extension.

A suggestion by John A. Laird that Lindell drive be widened between Kingshighway and Skinker boulevard was referred to the Streets Committee after Kinsey expressed doubt of the necessity and fear that widening would mar Forest Park. There is no necessity for the numerous changes made or proposed in the zoning law to convert zones of higher order to apartment or commercial districts, Bartholomew declared, but the amendments generally are only to benefit individuals. Such changes, he believes, are unconstitutional.

Zoning Law Liberal. The zoning law is pointed out, is liberal in that it devotes 5.1 per cent of the city's area to commercial districts and 36.7 per cent to residential districts, with 16 per cent of the latter for apartments. When the zoning law was adopted in 1924 only 3.1 per cent of the city was occupied by commercial buildings and the large increase in this class in eight years had been only 3 per cent. The commercial area is ample for the next 125 years, he said.

At a meeting yesterday of the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen, Alderman Lange said: "We've been making these changes without knowing a thing about them, just because some individuals come in and want them." The committee was having a hearing on a bill advocated by Harry O. Clymer, chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustment, to permit that board to issue building permits for departures from zoning rules that do not violate the spirit of the law, without having them passed on by the Board of Aldermen. Some members of the committee thought it would be unwise to give the Board of Adjustment that power and Alderman Schwartz said it would be an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority.

nothing so far concerning what has happened, because I have not believed the time was appropriate. But the time may come when it will be necessary to speak out on this subject and I want it known that when it does come, I will not be unprepared. "When that time comes those who sponsored the bill, and who wrote into it the preferential clause, will not be slow to express their views, regardless of what any solicitor may advise, or what any department may attempt to do. I want to make that very, very plain."

Westerners Aroused. Western Senators and Representatives have become thoroughly aroused over indications that Secretary Wilbur is considering giving all the Boulder Dam power to the Southern California Edison and associated companies. As a matter of fact, there was general dissatisfaction with his tentative plan, announced several months ago, to give that company one-fourth of the power and to grant it two-fifths of the control. Appeals to President Hoover to intervene have been fruitless. There was discussion yesterday, following the remarks of Norris and Johnson, of introducing a joint resolution, declaring it to be the sense of Congress that the Wilbur plan violates the letter and spirit of the act, and calling on him to allot all the power to the states and municipalities that have applied for it.

In 1852, the first train west of the Mississippi River made a trip over the first few miles of finished road. The following year this line—the Pacific Railroad—was completed and opened for business. Its terminals were St. Louis and Kirkwood. This was the first unit of what is now the Missouri Pacific system... Boatmen's had already been serving the community since 1847. On June 23rd, 1853, this progressive bank announced two discount days each week—Tuesdays and Fridays.

IT IS a far cry from 1847 to 1930—from the slow, wood-burning locomotive to the oil-burning mountains of steel which now speed over the rails—from the friendly little banking room to the Boatmen's of today—large, modern, progressive and efficient, and still retaining a warm personal contact with its customers.

That friendly relationship has been a cardinal principle at Boatmen's for 83 years. It is more responsible for its progress—and for the growth of its customers—than any other one thing.

Boatmen's is the oldest bank in Missouri. Regardless of how different in outward form the Boatmen's of yesterday and today may be, the same sound policies upon which the bank was founded have been followed consistently through all these years.

Boatmen's offers you the facilities of its well-balanced banking, investment and fiduciary departments—with courageous support.

CHURCHMAN ELEVATED

VERY REV. WM. SCARLETT

DEAN SCARLETT
TO MAKE DECISION
WITHIN TEN DAYS

Elected as Bishop Coadjutor
He Is Likely to Be Consecrated After April 20 if He Accepts.

Dean William Scarlett of Christ Church Cathedral, Bishop-Coadjutor-elect of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of (Eastern) Missouri,
said today that he would make known within 10 days, to Bishop Frederick Foote Johnson, his decision as to acceptance of the coadjutorship, to which he was chosen by the diocesan convention yesterday.

In the event of his acceptance
the standing committee of all dioceses in the United States, and all the Bishops will be called by mail
as to ratification of the election.
Ratification by a majority of each is required. This formality may take four to six weeks. It is therefore not likely that, with the other preparations required, the formal consecration of Dean Scarlett to the office of Bishop-Coadjutor can take place until after Easter, which is April 20. Three or more Bishops administer the consecration.

The diocesan convention was in its second and final day's work today, at Bishop Tuttle Memorial Hall, dealing with methods of finance and organization.
Diocesan officers and committees elected today were: Treasurer, Win-cent L. Prior; delegates to Provincial synod, the Rev. David Coombs, C. D. Blake, members of diocesan council, the Rev. F. J. Hoy, the Rev. R. M. Wilcox, Elias S. Gatch
and C. D. Pangman; members standing committee, the Rev. J.
Courtney Jones, the Rev. E. S.
Travers, the Rev. John S. Bunting, Davis Riggs, George M. Block and James M. Bull, trustee permanent fund for support of episcopate, Frank C. Thompson, Charles J. Miller and Judson S. Benis; trustees aged and infirm clergy fund, the Rev. J. J. Wilkins, S. O. Sutherland and W. L. Henry; trustees theological education, the Rev. W. J. Hoy, Willard Wright
and George C. Mackay; trustees University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., the Rev. Carroll M. Davis,
John G. Lonsdale and Ethel A. H.
Shepley; chancellor, 2-year term,
George C. Hitchcock.

A resolution memorializing the service of the Rev. Edmund Duckworth, retired after 35 years' pastorate at the church of the Redeemer, was adopted.
The Rev. David Coombs of Louisiana, Mo., dean and missionary of the northern convocation of the Missouri diocese, spoke on the problems of work in rural Missouri. He said, in referring to the work awaiting the new bishop-coadjutor, that "Darkest Africa does not present the challenge that rural Missouri does to the church." He declared that "ignorance and ignomy of the rank and file are everywhere in rural Missouri" and that
"many of our people are losing their faith, and they ought to, unless we do something." He said afterward that he had not intended to picture Missouri as a waste of time and other parts of the country,
but thought the same conditions could be found in other states. He said one of the greatest tasks of the church was to bring the older and younger generations to a plane
of mutual understanding and sympathy.

BONDS IRREGULAR, SHADING SLIGHTLY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The bond market gave another irregular performance today, shading slightly lower. Heaviness of the International Telephone convertible 4 1/2s was a feature. The bonds sagged to 113 1/2 as the stock touched a new low for the movement, but recovered from that level on a liberal turnover.

American I. T. Chemical 5 1/2s lost more than a point coincident with the Chemical Foundation's complaint to the State Bureau of Securities demanding an investigation of the $50,000,000 issue, which appeared late spring.

American Telephone convertible 4 1/2s were firm during most of the session, but turned upward in the late trading.

Standard rails and utilities were dull. International and Great Northern adjustment 6s and Delaware & Hudson 5 1/2s dropped a point, while Mobile & Ohio 4 1/2s and St. Louis Southern 5 1/2s suffered further declines. St. Paul general 4s rose 3 points. However, the market was thin.

Pink Rubber 8s scored about 6 points on reported sinking fund purchases. New York City traction, especially the Interborough, Rapid Transit listing, were buoyant in sympathy with the rise in the share.

United States Government and foreign obligations remained quiet.

Steel Industry Situation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Iron Age will say tomorrow that the rapid recovery of the steel industry has been a surprise to consumers and producers alike, although some producers, still skeptical of the duration of the current rate of activity, have hesitated to increase their operations as fast as business seems to warrant. The operations of the United States Steel Corporation have risen to 75 per cent of rated capacity, while the average for the industry as a whole is fully that high. A year ago the rate for the industry ranged from 35 to 90 per cent.

The Iron Age composite price for finished steel dropped from 2.12 cents a pound last week to 2.03 cents, the lowest in more than two years. The pig iron composite remains at $15.27 a gross ton.

Expulsion From Mexico Urged.
(Copyright, 1936.)
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—Walter Scanlon of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has been named by Mexico City's Chief of Police for expulsion from this country as an undesirable foreigner. The application for his expulsion was made to the President of the Republic in accordance with Mexican law. In it Scanlon is charged with acts and words derogatory to the Mexican Government. Scanlon came to Mexico several months ago representing a New York corporation. He has been engaged in wiring movie houses for talkies.

FOR TRACKS IN CENTER OF NORTH BROADWAY

Aldermanic Committee Kills Measure Putting Rails on Side of Street.

The controversy over the location of the car tracks in connection with the widening of Broadway between North and Center avenues took a new turn today when the Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen voted to kill the two ordinances involved, but requested the Board of Public Service to draw new ones which would require the tracks to be put in the center of the street and be paved. The old bills would have placed the tracks in an unpaved strip at the west side.

Various North St. Louis interests sought the central location, but some city officials opposed it. The Council on Civic Needs advocated as a compromise a detached, unpaved strip for the tracks near the center of the street. W. W. Horner, chief paving engineer for the city, told the committee that the council scheme would cost considerably more than either of the two other plans, the side location being the cheapest. Chairman Pett of the committee said Comptroller Nolte had declared he would oppose use of funds for any plan except the cheapest.

The committee voted to report favorably on a third ordinance to widen Broadway to 80 feet and 90 feet, variously, between Center and Hall's Ferry road, a section where the tracks are in the center, and paved, and will remain so. The Public Service Co. has talked of removing the tracks and substituting trackless trolley service.

THE MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

WE MODERNS.
Next to being fat, the saddest fate is to find yourself a tall and languorous Gibson girl or a subtle siren type, in a "Hey-hey-girl" generation.

Now that New York debutantes have decided that all parties must break up at the "early" hour of 8 a. m., those snappy young business men can get home almost in time to have a cold shower and snatch a bite of breakfast, before showing up bright and peppy at the office.

When a woman gives a man up, it always leaves a void in her life; but when a man gives a woman up, it is usually because some other woman is crowding her out.

Now that all the other necessities of life, including the kitchen range, are being glorified and dolled up to charm the eye, many a woman secretly wishes that her husband could be made just a teeny-weeny bit more ornamental to harmonize with the color-scheme.

Just about the time a woman has discovered how many minutes her husband likes his eggs boiled and he has discovered where she keeps the witchhazel, incompatibility sets in.

A woman would hate to miss the thrilling sensation of feeling herself fall in love; but, to a man, falling in love is like taking gas; he doesn't know that anything is happening to him, until it's all over, and he wakes up to hear the minister saying "Amen."

It doesn't so much matter whether or not there is such a thing as future reward or everlasting love. It's your BELIEF in them that makes life worth living, and gives it all its flavor.

Turning a "good fellow" into a good husband is seldom a success; the man who is all things to all men is never much of anything to any woman.

The hardest thing for the woman, who got him, to live up to, is a man's glorified memory of the woman he didn't get.

mother's story will interest you

"MY little son, Billie, became bilious, pale, and listless," says Mrs. J. R. McDaniel, 2823 Shenandoah St., St. Louis. "He was never hungry and didn't digest what he ate. He was constipated."

"I decided to try California Fig Syrup; and it has been a blessing. Now his bowels are regular; he has a fine appetite and perfect digestion. I give him a little Fig Syrup, now and then, when he seems to need its help, and it keeps him gaining."

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP
THE RICH, FRUIT LAXATIVE
AND TONIC FOR CHILDREN

Giving children California Fig Syrup is the finest way to do away with the ills caused by constipation. This is the way children like; that doctors approve. This pure vegetable product just suits a child's system. It moves the bowels gently without griping or discomfort. It helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach so they continue to act naturally. A child's whole system soon reacts to its purifying and energizing qualities. Prove it the next time your child develops those first symptoms of a clogged system—unpleasant breath or coated tongue.

IRON MAN

By
W. R. Burnett
Author of "Little Caesar."

SYNOPSIS.

Coke Mason, dumb but clever middleweight prize fighter, has won a sensational bout with Prince Pearl, and now seeks the championship. Regan, Coke's boyhood pal and present manager, is shrewd and hardboiled. He is angered when Coke speaks long of Rose, his wife, who deserted him. Regan says she was no good. Coke meets a red-headed chorus girl, taking Coke for the sap he is, she tries to blackmail him. Regan arranges a meeting, using Riley, a gambler, as a fake lawyer. The red-head, scared, agrees never to see Coke. Coke, with Regan's other boxers, trains daily.

CHAPTER 9.

"YOU mind if I go a round or two with Dugan?" asked Speed.
"No," said Regan; "only box don't fight. If that guy gets sore and starts to swing, the him up."
"Watch me," said Speed.
Dugan and Speed climbed through the ropes and went at it. Jeff came back with Coke, who was grinning. When he saw the expression on Regan's face, the grin disappeared.

"What the matter, George?" he asked.
Regan handed him a newspaper and pointed.

Coke read Regan. "Joe Savella signed for a championship go with Mike Shay." Coke looked stupefied.

"Well," said Regan, "that's that."

"Yeah," said Coke; "the yellow rat. I told you he was afraid of me."

"You'll get a shot at him, Coke. Just keep your shirt on."

Coke sat down and looked at the floor.

"The newspaper boys are already razzing Mike," said Regan. "If he don't plaster Joe in five minutes, there'll be an awful noise."

"Well," said Coke, "I don't care who wins. I can lick both of 'em in one night."

"Sure you can," said Jeff. "I can lick 'em myself."

"Sure you can," said Coke.

"Say," said Regan, "cut out the back-slapping, you birds, and let's talk business."

Jeff smiled and struck at Regan; then he got up and stood watching Speed and Dugan, who were bouncing about the ring just above them.

"Listen, Coke," said Regan, "how'd you like to fight on the same card with Mike?"

"What?"

"Sure. What do you say?"

"You must be crazy. I fight main-gos."

"LISTEN," said Regan; "this is a chance to show Mike up. I can get you a match with that Norfolk bum that Mike almost picked. He needs the money. You can plaster him in one round and then give Mike the laugh."

Coke began to smile.

"Yeah," said Regan. "Wainwright wired me from New York about it. Everybody down East wants to see you get a break. They're sick of Mike Shay."

"By God, I'll do it," said Coke.

"All right," said Regan.

They sat watching Speed and Dugan. Speed was giving the Irish boy a good lacing. When the bell rang, they shook hands and climbed through the ropes. Speed came over to Coke.

"Tough luck, old kid," he said. "You'll make it yet."

"Thanks," said Coke.

Coke and Regan sat for a long time without speaking. Regan began to watch Coke. He knew that when wrinkles appeared in his forehead he was doing some heavy thinking. Finally he inquired:

"What's on your mind, Coke?"

"You know," said Coke, slowly. "I was just thinking maybe the minus would be in New York. She always wanted to live there."

Regan rubbed his chin and stared at the floor.

"Yeah," said Coke. "Course I ain't gonna hunt her up, because she may be off me for life. Only maybe I might see her or something."

"Yeah," said Regan; "New York's just a little place. You'll probably run into her at the main corner."

"You never know," said Coke.

Regan talked at the door of the dressing-room with a New York reporter who had evidently never heard of Coke Mason. Regan, somewhat irritated, handed out one of his best signs and gave the reporter the story of the Prince Pearl fight.

"Coming east," said Regan, "we had to take a statement so that boy of mine could work out. He's perfecting a punch that'll knock 'em silly and he won't let up for a minute. The boy's ambitious."

"Do you expect to get a match with Mike Shay?" asked the reporter.

"Yeah," said Regan, "unless he dies of fright after what he sees tonight."

The reporter laughed. Someone had told him that fight managers were great kidders.

"Well," said the reporter, "they tell me that Larsen's a comer."

"Before you print anything that bird says, kid, verify it, verify it!"

"All right," said Regan.

THE reporter laughed and went back into The Coliseum. Big Tim offered Regan a cigar and leaned against the corridor wall for a talk. Regan put his hand on Tim's shoulder.

"Tim," he said, "that don't look like no capacity house to me."

Big Tim held out his hand, "Nice fight, kid." Thanks," said Speed.

He stood the customers on their heads in that first bout."

"Speed," said Regan, "come in the dressing-room with me. I'll talk to you, see, for Coke's benefit, and all you got to do is say 'yeah' and 'that so?' like you was surprised, see?"

"Sure, I got you."

CHAPTER 15.
Penrod Does a Little Brother Act.

MARGARET sat up straight in her chair. "I think," she said, "when you bring such charges against me, you had better explain what you mean."

"Why, I wasn't bringing any charges," Robert protested unhappily. "I only meant that last summer I thought you were pretty good of me, and when I came home for the holidays, you were so—so—friendly and settled things. And you let me up to three weeks ago, were were the same way. Then you didn't write any more."

"I knew your time was occupied with commencement."

"You shouldn't have been hampered!" he cried indignantly. "Margaret, how can you sit there and go on with such barefaced hypocrisy?"

"What?" she said. "Hypocrisy? Is that what you're charging me with?"

"You know it! You've changed toward me. You don't want to be engaged to me, and you put it on the score of my future instead of confessing that there's somebody else!"

"What?"

"It's true! It's you who want to be free. I feared it, but I wouldn't believe it, not even when I was told so!"

"Told so!" she echoed sharply. "Who told you?"

"I decline to state. But it's true. I was told yesterday that you'd gone everywhere for the last four or five weeks with a new man that's come here to live, named Dade."

"Mr. Dade?" Margaret asked angrily. "He has nothing whatever to do with it, and I wish you'd please leave Mr. Herbert Hamilton out of this conversation."

"It's true! I see it must be the truth," he said.

"It is this Dade! And you sat there pretending you were thinking of my future—oh, Margaret, I should think you'd be ashamed!"

"You're a snob, so unjust. I couldn't have believed—I couldn't!"

She was weeping.

STRICKEN, the miserable young man threw himself upon his knees beside her, imploring, "Margaret! For God's sake, don't cry! I take it back! I didn't mean it."

"You're so—so cruel!" she sobbed. "You—you have no right—it's not so. Mr. Dade hasn't been here since early in the week—he was here one evening—I admit it!"

Robert sprang to his feet. "You do," he said harshly. "I thought so." And he broke into bitter laughter. "Fool that I was," he cried. "Yes, a fool in a fool's paradise, there at college—believing you loved me!"

"I never told you so," she protested.

"No; you never told me in so many words. It was only the fitful way to let a poor fool guess it for himself."

Meaning, Margaret lifted imploring hands, caught his arm and clung to it. "You mustn't, Robert," she begged him, in a voice that was almost a sob. "Don't leave me! You mustn't charge me with making playthings of men—you can't dream how miserable I am! I've told you"—she choked—that Mr. Dade was here Tuesday."

At this moment a human voice spoke from just on the other side of a large bath chair that stood about four feet away. "It wasn't either Tuesday," this voice said in tones of warm interest. "It was Wednesday he was here."

Margaret leaped to her feet. "Penrod!" she shrieked, how long have you been there?

"Well, just while you and Bob been talking," he replied casually, and continued, "I remember well as anything it was Wednesday and not Tuesday he was here, because Wednesday I and papa went to the movies and—"

But Margaret remained for no further introduction of corroborative evidence. "Oh!" she cried. "It's a tumultuous rush, she disappeared into her room front door."

"I guess she feels mad," Penrod said placidly, turning to Mr. Williams.

He paused as Mr. Williams seemed to be hardly more in a mood for conversation than Margaret had been.

"Well, you got home?" Penrod inquired.

But the visitor only muttered something incoherent and descended the steps of the verandah.

PENROD hopped up and, quite uninvited, accompanied him to the gate. "I know, I'm right," he said, "because, after the movie, I and papa went to bring mama from prayer meeting Wednesday night, and when we got back, that Dade was here, and papa heard him call her. I remember him saying and told her so at breakfast next morning. Well, after that—well, goodnight."

Penrod added this farewell a little breathlessly, owing to the abruptness with which Robert swung out of the gate. Then the little brother watched the tall figure growing quickly dimmer; but, more by a charitable impulse before it passed out of hearing, he leaned over the gate and called loudly, "He's around here all the time, anyway!"

After that, Penrod waited in silence, expecting the courtesy of a comment, but nothing came. This lack of responsiveness on the part of one whom he felt to be fully his equal caused him some surprise, but, upon reflection, he decided that Margaret's conduct was responsible.

Penrod had admired Bob Williams faithfully, above all other suitors, for more than a year—in fact, ever since the preceding summer when Mr. Williams had given him a dollar, and the seeming cuteness of this present departure caused no abatement in the admiration. Besides, in the matter of Margaret, Penrod was firmly on Robert's side and even more firmly not on Mr. Dade's side.

However, she had influence inside the house, and he delayed before entering it, because he gleefully supposed she would be stirring up the authorities there against him.

He was cheerfully surprised, therefore, upon repairing to the library, where his mother and father were engaged at cribbage, to be greeted casually, no reference whatever to Margaret being made.

George E. Jashber was sympathetically present at the Schofield family dinner table the following evening, though the family and Mr. Herbert Hamilton Dade, a guest upon this occasion, were unconscious of the honor. Mrs. Schofield did indeed notice a peculiarity in her son's manner; but she misinterpreted it.

"Do your eyes hurt you, Penrod?" she whispered to him.

"No," he said. "Why?"

"You keep making that pucker in your forehead. I've noticed lately; and you keep looking out of your eyes sideways, as though it hurt you to look at anything straight in front of you. Does it?"

"No, it doesn't."

"Then don't do it, Penrod."

After dinner, Penrod disappeared (as was his summer privilege) until 9 o'clock, his bedtime, and presently he was moving slowly on all fours along the lattice-work below the front veranda. Unfortunately for his mystic purposes, Margaret glanced down over the railing.

"Don't play around here, Penrod," she said. "You'll catch cold from the dew on the grass, and if you don't find something healthier to do, I'll have to call mother."

Frozen Fruit Salad
One small can each pears, apricots, grated pineapple, salad dressing, lettuce. Dice the pears and apricots and blend with the pineapple and one cup of salad dressing. Turn into a mold, seal closely and bury in ice and salt for four hours. Unmold, cut into slices and serve on lettuce, garnishing with additional salad dressing.

Roasting Fowls
Rinse out a clean white cloth in hot water and lay over the fowl as soon as it begins to brown. Remove the cloth every 30 minutes and carefully rinse out in hot water and return to the fowl. The water and cloth will cause steam to form, which will keep the skin moist and will give it a delicate, brown, well flavored crust.

When It Pays to Break Conventions In Radio Bridge

THE old saying that "To be a bridge expert you must know the conventions and when to break them" was proven true again in the eleventh of Milton G. Wren's radio bridge games, broadcast Tuesday from station KSD, with Mrs. E. G. Pimm as partner, at 8:00 P.M. Mrs. William C. Ryan of St. Louis, and Mr. J. J. Tobin of Chicago as players.

The cards were: Mrs. Pimm, dealer, South Spades, A, 3, 4, 5, 6; Hearts, A, 3, 4, 5, 6; Clubs, A, 3, 4, 5, 6; Diamonds, A, 3, 4, 5, 6. Mr. Tobin, North, dealt two Hearts. ... a bid that was neither a rescue nor a warning, but merely an indication to his partner that he held a strong suit and strength for the No Trump.

In a case like this, the strength may be either in the suit named, as in this instance, or on the side, or in both places; and such a bid urges a rebid of the No Trump if the No Trump lacks support for the major suit. The fact that North's hand contained a singleton was also an additional argument in favor of the suit-bid. After North's two-Heart call, Mrs. Ryan, East, passed.

Mrs. Pimm, South, delighted with her partner's Heart bid, which took care of her only No Trump weakness, went to two No Trumps, which held the bid.

To the first trick, Mr. Barclay, West, led the 7 of Spades, the fourth-best of his longest and strongest suit. Mr. Tobin spread his hand for Dummy, which held the 4 of Spades, the 3 of Spades in her own hand, ... a bid that was neither a rescue nor a warning, but merely an indication to his partner that he held a strong suit and strength for the No Trump.

Mr. Barclay played his Jack because he was not certain that his partner had another Spade, although he thought it unlikely that Declarer had held five originally, as with five Spades in her hand and no Heart strength, she hardly would have bid an initial No Trump. But to make sure that Spades would be continued, Mr. Barclay thought it best to overtake his partner's 10. To the next trick Mr. Barclay led his 6 of Spades, to show his partner that his fourth-best was not his lowest, and that he had at least five originally. Dummy, North, discarded the 5 of Diamonds; Mrs. Ryan, East, played the Deuce of Spades; and Mrs. Pimm, South, won with the Ace.

Now in the lead, Declarer could count seven sure tricks. The Heart suit seemed to offer the best chance of giving her the two more tricks she needed for game. So to trick four, Mrs. Pimm led the 4 of Hearts, intending to play the 3 from Dummy if West played a small Heart.

This lead caused Mr. Barclay, West, to consider carefully; should he make the natural play of one of his small Hearts, he was sure Dummy would finesse, and his partner, doubtless holding the Jack, since Declarer did not lead it, would win the trick. But Mr. Barclay's own Queen would then fall on one of Dummy's high Hearts and Declarer would make four heart tricks, which probably would give her game. So Mr. Barclay departed from the convention, "second hand low" and made the unusual second hand play of his Queen of Hearts. In making this play he also took into consideration the probability as shown by the bidding, that Declarer had only two Hearts. If she had had only a worthless singleton, she would not have bid the initial No Trump; if she had had three Hearts, she would have passed her partner's Heart bid.

DECLARER could not afford to let Mr. Barclay's Queen win, because he would then have two established Spades and a five game; therefore she played Dummy's King of Hearts. East played the 5 of Hearts, and Mrs. Ryan, East, had held the Queen-Jack and another Heart, and had played the Queen to pre-
